Unemployment rate to 6%

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's unemployment rate climbed from 5.8 to 6 per cent last month, its highest level in three years, the government reported today.

The increase, another indicator of recession, was a pre-election blow to the Republican national administration.

The October unemployment level was the highest since November 1971 when it also hit 6 per cent during a time of recovery from the recession of 1970 and 1971. The last time unemployment was above 6 per cent was in November 1961, also a post-recessionary period.

The Labor Department said 5.5 million Americans were without jobs last month, 200,000 more than in September and 1.3 million more than in October 1973.

Government analysts said the 5.5 million unemployed was the highest since the Labor Department began computing monthly unemployment figures in 1948.

Black workers accounted for much of the increase in the October rise in unemployment as their jobless rate rose from 9.8 to 10.9 per cent, the department said. The jobless rate for white workers was about unchanged last month at 5.4 per cent.

With economic activity in a slump, unemployment is expected to continue rising, possibly as high as 7 per cent next year, according to forecasts made by some of President Ford's economic advisers.

Two former milk execs sentenced

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two former top leaders of the nation's biggest dairy cooperative were sentenced to jail terms today for making illegal campaign donations, the first time prison sentences have been imposed for such an offense since the Watergate scandals began.

U.S. District Judge George L. Hart Jr. said the jail sentences were handed out to deter others from making illegal corporate campaign donations.

Hart sentenced Harold S. Nelson and David L. Parr to three years in jail but immediately suspended all but four months of the term. He also fined them both $10,000. Hart scheduled them to begin serving their sentences Nov. 8 at the federal prison compound at Montgomery, Ala.

Nelson, of San Antonio, Tex., was general manager of Associated Milk Producers, Inc. Parr, of Little Rock, Ark., was Nelson's top assistant. Both were toppled from power in an internal struggle at the co-op in early 1972, before the contribution scandals were exposed.

Nelson and Parr pleaded guilty to making illegal donations to Sen. Hubert Humphrey, D-Minn., and Rep. Wilbur Mills, D-Ark., among others.

In addition to campaign donations, Nelson also admitted authorizing a $10,000 bribe for former Treasury Secretary John B. Connally, who has denied receiving the money.

Connally has been charged with bribery, perjury and conspiracy and has pleaded innocent.

Kleuppel salary hike rejected by committee; may even be cut

By ROBERT H. NELLIS
The Fees and Salaries Committee of the County Board today recommended the salary of the administrator of the Lee County Nursing Home remain the same; that the pay for the administrator of the Veterans Assistance Commission go to $1,750; that the commission budget be set at $25,000 for the next fiscal year and that the commission administrator be directed to give assistance to only those veterans who qualify, according to state law.

Joseph Kleuppel, administrator of the nursing home, had requested his salary be raised from $17,500 to $19,000 but the committee rejected the request.

A. H. Frazz, District 4, County Board chairman, told the committee a motion will be made and seconded at the Nov. 12 meeting of the board which will call for Kleuppel's pay to be cut to $16,000, which is the amount paid to publicly elected county officials.

Arthur Carlson of the veterans commission is now paid $1, 500 for his part-time job and had asked the salary be raised to $6,000.

The committee rejected this, noting he will get a 16 per cent raise along with all other county employees which will bring his salary to $1,750.

Carlson has also submitted a budget of $35,000 for next year which the committee voted to recommend be reduced to $25,000.

The present budget was first set at $20,000 and later was raised by $8,000 by the Finance Committee, when the commission ran out of money.

Arthur Erickson, District 2, chairman, Fees and Salaries Committee, said Carlson is following a practice of giving assistance to every person "who ever wore a uniform."

He noted the state law permitting counties to pay assistance to veterans states it should only go to those who were in service during wartime.

Specifically, the state calls for aid to be restricted to those veterans who served in World War I, from April 16, 1917, to Nov. 11, 1918; World War II, from Dec. 7, 1941, to Sept. 2, 1945; Korea from June 25, 1950, to Jan. 31, 1955, and Vietnam, from Aug. 4, 1964.

Erickson pointed out veterans who were in service at times other than listed above must seek assistance from some other agencies.

Frazz related the cost of veterans assistance had reached $3,000 per month several years ago before the commission was established and that the first administrator, the late Marion Reece, reduced the amount paid out, and charged since Carlson has taken over the cost has steadily risen.

"The amount of veterans assistance hit $2,700 in November," disclosed Frazz.

The board chairman related one veteran is being paid $100 per month to pay rent to his parents where he is living and said he thought the veteran has since left the county, but declared the assistance is still being paid.

Nixon reported in best condition since surgery; Ford to visit

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Former President Richard M. Nixon is "in his best condition since his operation," President Ford was told today.

After hearing the news, Ford arranged today to visit Nixon at a hospital here.

Press Secretary Ron Nessen said Nixon's physician, Dr. John C. Lungren, called presidential physician William Lukash and said:

"The former president is in his best condition since his operation. A visit from President Ford would be a tremendous boost to his morale."

Ford, who aroused a storm of controversy Sept. 8 when he granted Nixon a full pardon, arranged to fly by helicopter to Long Beach International Airport, then drive to the hospital.

Ford spent Thursday night in a Los Angeles hotel after a Republican campaign rally.

Nessen said Ford would spend about 20 minutes at the hospital where Nixon is still listed in critical condition after surgery Monday.

Lungren said in a written hospital statement later, "The condition of former President Richard M. Nixon is stable but remains serious. He is slowly and steadily improving."

Lungren said he had told Dr. Lukash that a visit from Ford "would be extremely therapeutic."

In a detailed report of Nixon's vital health signs, Lungren said every indication showed improvement and suggested that internal bleeding had stopped.

He said Nixon received transfusions overnight — one pint of whole blood and eight units of blood platelets.

Although Lungren's report was the most optimistic issued since Nixon went into shock for three hours from internal bleeding following the phlebitis surgery, the doctor said there was still a chance of further hemorrhaging.

He said Nixon was alert.

Nixon's doctors said late Thursday that he probably will remain on the critical list for 24 to 72 hours. They said, "There are dangers lurking in the background."

The doctors said the internal bleeding which nearly cost the former president his life had apparently stopped. New transfusions were ordered to replace blood lost after surgery last Tuesday for his phlebitis condition.

Ford arrived in Los Angeles for a political fund-raising dinner Thursday evening and it was learned that he would visit Nixon at Long Beach Memorial Hospital Medical Center early today.

Presidential Press Secretary Ron Nessen said Ford talked to Mrs. Nixon by telephone Thursday and asked whether it would be helpful if he went to see Nixon.

"I can't think of anything that would do him more good," was Mrs. Nixon's reply, Nessen said.

The 61-year-old former president could have died from the internal bleeding that sent him into shock after the operation Tuesday, "if proper measures had not been taken," Dr. John C. Lungren told a news conference Thursday.

Special use viewed as end around

City Plan Commission may toughen stand

A chance remark by Paul Bay, member of the Dixon City Plan Commission at Wednesday night's meeting at City Hall would indicate petitioners seeking special use are going to find heavy going with the commission.

Bay, who was unanimously elected to succeed R. C. Bassetti as chairman of the commission, made a statement, "It seems like someone is always trying to make an end run to get around zoning ordinances with special use petitions."

Bay's remark came as the commission unanimously voted to recommend rejection of a petition by Raymond and Irene Hays, 815 Washington Ave., for bait shops to be included under special use ordinances.

Neighbors protested the proposed change. Allen Cathey, 807 Washington Ave., said "We don't care to have zoning changed. Leave it residential."

Robert Whitehead, 827 Washington Ave., added "I live four houses away. I don't want the zoning amended in any way, shape or form."

Mrs. Cathey charged Mr. and Mrs. Hays were illegally operating their bait shop out of a truck parked on the street.

Hays answered the charges by saying everything that is being done is perfectly legal. John Smith, who lives next door to the Hays residence, complained the truck was blocking his view as he drove from his driveway and creating a hazard for him.

Bassetti told Mrs. Cathey and Smith any legal questions would have to be answered by the city attorney and the police. The commission was merely making a recommendation of the proposal, he added.

Commissioner James Phelps and Hays clashed verbally during the course of the meeting.

Phelps wanted to know if "operating from the street wasn't creating a hazard?"

Hays replied, "It creates a hardship on us. There is no hazard involved. I think people feel this is a zoning change. It is not, it is a request for special use."

Phelps shot back, "Do you know the meaning of special use?"

Mrs. Hays read the description to Phelps. Hays asserted bait shops almost always have to be in residential areas because of their unusual nature.

Phelps said, "I fish, and I'm a native of Dixon. Why is a bait shop unusual?"

Hays said it had to be operated from the home because of care involved in keeping minnows and another bait.

Phelps moved that the commission reject the petition to change to amendment and Bassetti got a unanimous show of hands when he asked for a vote.

Watergate trial lawyers eye Nixon medical reports

WASHINGTON (AP) — Lawyers in the Watergate cover-up trial are watching medical reports on Richard M. Nixon because the former president's health may decide whether he will appear as a witness.

Meanwhile, the former deputy director of Nixon's 1972 re-election committee, Jeb Stuart Magruder, took the stand today for his fourth day of testimony.

The attorney for Kenneth W. Parkinson asked Magruder, "Parkinson had nothing to do with the events before the break-in on June 17, 1972, did he?"

"No, sir," said Magruder.

The lawyer, Jacob Stein, then asked Magruder the same questions for a series of dates leading up to July 13, 1972, when Parkinson was told the true story of the break-in by Magruder.

Parkinson was hired as a lawyer for the re-election committee once the original Watergate burglars were caught.

Earlier, U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica announced to the jury that the principal lawyer for defendant Robert C. Mardian, David C. Bress, was ill and would be gone from the courtroom for some time.

Defense sources had said Mardian's other lawyer, Thomas Green, had requested a separate trial for Mardian because of Bress' illness.

But Sirica has apparently turned that down, saying to the jury, "We hope Mr. Bress will be able to return to active participation in the near future."

Lawyers familiar with the trial say there already has been serious discussion about moving the trial to California for Nixon's testimony if the former president is too ill to travel to Washington.

Another possibility is a direct television link from California to Judge Sirica's courtroom in Washington.

Would be uncommitted, tough lawmaker, says Burke

By ROBERT H. NELLIS

"I will be free from any commitment to anyone except the people."

"I have a background in political life which will make me a tough legislator."

"I have the guts to get out in front to get things going when change is needed."

This was the introduction Donald F. Burke, Democratic candidate for state representative from the 37th District, gave at a recent interview, then he started out to explain his statements.

"We have raised $11,000 for my political campaign and not one cent of it has come from any special interest group."

"If I am elected, I will be the most free people's representative who has ever walked into the General Assembly," asserted the candidate.

"The people of the 37th District will have a legislator who is tough, effective and who will be visible and the people will know who he is and where he stands and the members of the General Assembly will know he is there."

"I know how the political process works and how to use the power of a legislator and the benefit will accrue to the people of this district because I will be an effective legislator," projected Burke.

"The people will not be sending down an errand boy, they all will know where I stand," he continued.

"I can tell you one thing, I will be independent of any political party and I will not be afraid to challenge the powers that be in the legislature and this may bring me into trouble with some members of the General Assembly," observed the candidate.

"But, I guarantee the people of this district I will never make them ashamed for the support which they provided for my candidacy," promised the Lee County hopeful.

Burke recalled he learned his political trade the hard way.

"From the first day I served on the Lee County

State Rep. Board my role has been Democrat surrounded by Republicans and I have been the one to question requests and making people justify their actions and questioning tradition and practice.

"When I first got on the board I was relegated to the Bovine Committee, which was nothing committee, and I attacked every proposal made by the big committees."

"The next time around they put me on one of the big committees to shut me up, but that did not work," related Burke.

"Now on the County Board, I am a member of the Finance Committee and you can ask any department head in county government who is the toughest and hardest-nosed member making them to justify their requests and they will say, 'Burke,'" alleged the candidate.

"In the 14 years I have served in local government I have been a member of the Board to Tax Appeals, the Lee County Planning Commission and the Lee County Housing Authority."

"County government gives the broadest perspective as local officials can get because the county is sort of a mini-state."

"For me, as a Democrat, up to now this was the highest place I could get to serve in this Republican dominated area."

"Now there is a chance for me to serve the people of this county and those in the other areas of this legislative district and I want the opportunity to show I can function just as ably in the Illinois House as I have on the Lee County Board," declared Burke.

Revealing a bit of his political strategy, the candidate confessed the model for the planned activity in a legislative situation comes from the late Sen. Everett Dirksen, the Republican who was such a power in the U.S. Senate.

"Dirksen was so successful in a Congress which was dominated by the other party because of the method he employed."

"And that was to take a different or opposite position to anything offered by the Democratic majority and make sure his stand became well-known."

"Then, eventually, to get what they wanted the other side had to make some peace with Dirksen and in so doing he got, at least, part of what he wanted," explained Burke.

"You don't necessarily make friends that way," reasoned Burke, "but legislators are not down there to be good guys, they are there to give the best effort of their talents for the good of the state and for the people of the districts they represent."

Burke asserted there is another alternative to Dirksen's method and that is to "go along, get along and it's okay in the long run if you want to have a legislator who for 30 years gets nothing done but occupy a seat there and is hardly known outside of his district."

"The problem with this guy is in today's world problems are crying for immediate attention and there might not be time to wait for him," chided Burke.

On his last introductory point, Burke said, "I have proven I am not afraid to get out in front by myself and I will play that role in Springfield."

"Everybody knows we have a screwy system, for instance, about the real estate taxes financing local education and yet nobody wants to talk about it."

"Somebody has to get out ahead and get thumped on the head sometimes to be a catalyst to get things going, I am the guy who has the guts to do that."

"I understand how the political system works and what makes it tick and know how to accomplish objectives in a political atmosphere."

"If people will give me the chance I want to put my talents to work for them in Springfield," stressed the candidate.

Burke is the proprietor of Coffee Host and is a partner in Burke Rentals.

He is married and, with his wife, lives on Ill. 3.

Case of voter apathy

By MAURY KANE
STOCKTON, Calif. (NEA)—The fallout of Watergate in California's San Joaquin County is an acute case of voter apathy.

The malady is a strange one for this normally politically active hub of the agriculturally rich Central Valley.

Traditionally, a gubernatorial primary election in the county attracts a 64 to 68 per cent voter turnout. A scant 57 per cent of county's eligible voters cast ballots this June.

Statewide, only 53.99 per cent of the registered voters exercised their franchise in the primary.

San Joaquin County's voter registration for the November general election is down 6.5 per cent.

"We even had difficulty recruiting deputy registrars to sign up the voters," says a county election department spokesman.

Voter disenchantment goes even deeper than Watergate.

"There's a feeling of frustration over inflation that's affecting nearly everyone," says another county official.

There are differences of opinion as to the effectiveness and the equity of the anti-inflationary measures being proposed by President Ford, but there is general agreement that "at least the man is making the effort."

The new President's action in halting the recently proposed grain sale to Russia cheered those administration critics who accused his predecessor of sacrificing the nation's economy for the enhancement of his own personal image abroad.

Like the frustrated private citizen, San Joaquin County government is feeling the squeeze of soaring inflation. Revenue from taxes and services is falling short of paying the inflated bills. County services are being reduced and planned capital improvements are being delayed.

Authorities, however, are confident that county government, as well as the voters will "return to previous form" by the time the 1976 presidential primary rolls around.

There already are encouraging signs of recovery—at least on the part of the voters.

They are insisting on straightforward answers from political candidates. They appear to be more concerned with the candidates themselves than with the parties they represent. They are critically examining candidates' credentials, their platforms and their motives.

The voters are clearly angry with themselves for permitting past abuses of political power. They leave no doubt they will be more demanding of those they choose to represent them.

There will be casualties of the Watergate spawned wave of righteousness. Those legislators who survive will be the responsive, rather than the irresponsible, the innovative, rather than the tricky.

Watergate has given voters a new appreciation of the word "ethics" in all its applications.

It has also given politicians a new—if painful—awareness of the power of the people.

Racism erupts when forced

By DON OAKLEY

One aspect of the continuing "flight from the cities" that has received little attention from the sociologists and social reformers is the fact that this is far from being strictly a white phenomenon.

Perhaps it was in the beginning, but today, as more and more blacks climb up at least a few rungs on the ladder of affluence, more and more of them are moving into formerly all-white suburbs near metropolitan areas all over the nation.

They are motivated by the same desires as were the whites before them—to live in a decent home in a decent community, to send their children to schools that are not crumbling and plagued with crime and to escape from the deterioration and degradation of the inner cities.

Yet when whites fled from blacks or poor whites, it was called racism of class snobbery. When blacks flee from blacks—and that is what they are doing whether or not anyone admits it—it is called upward mobility, if it is not ignored entirely by those who see only the shortcomings of American society and dismiss its accomplishments.

For the most part, this migration is taking place with a minimum of racial strife and that comes usually in the initial stages. Suburban whites are discovering that when blacks move in, the neighborhood does not automatically go to hell; property values do not fall but continue to rise, as they are rising everywhere in an inflationary economy. They are learning that blacks just want the same things they do. Many white families are realizing that there is no place left to flee and that they have to make integration work.

America's racial problem is not a problem of the suburbs. It is a problem of the cities. And in the cities, the problem is not that of integration per se, either in housing or in schools. The legal aspects of that battle have been fought and won by the blacks. It is when integration is massive and overwhelming or when it is artificially forced that there is conflict.

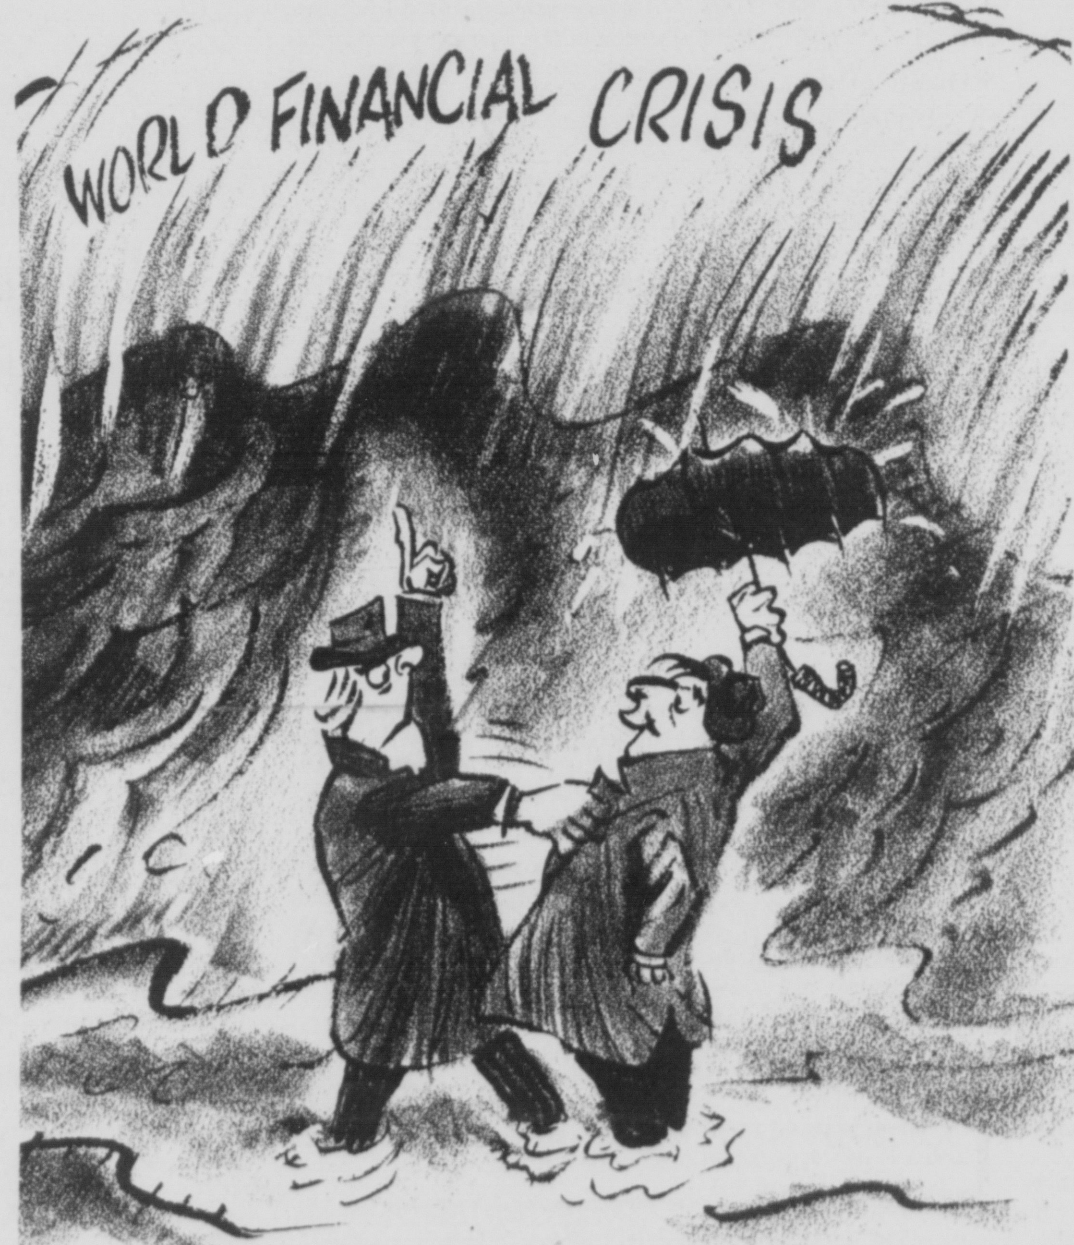

We see an example of the former in a city like Cleveland, where the black ghetto is expanding into and sometimes around old, established white ethnic areas. We see an example of the latter in Boston, where children of both races are being arbitrarily taken out of their neighborhoods and bused to distant, "quota-ized" schools.

Even there, the conflict has arisen not so much from the fact that black children are being placed in white schools as that white children are being forced to attend black schools of inferior quality. There would be exactly the same kind of resistance from black parents who have managed to extricate themselves from the ghetto if the courts were to order their children back in to it.

Rather than permitting, or being able to permit, integration to proceed at its own natural pace on the basis of gradually increasing affluence among blacks, we are trying to compress an immensely difficult and complicated social process into a matter of months.

No nation has ever done this before. No society has ever attempted it. It is not surprising that there should be conflicts.

"I never did understand those high-falutin' money problems!"

As Fiat goes so goes Italy

By HENRY J. TAYLOR

Fiat's internal troubles in Italy mirror the nation. This NATO ally of ours is a strategic imperative in the defense of non-Communist Europe and its loss is a gaping hole.

Fiat, S.P.A., is Italy's largest private employer. It rivals West Germany's Volkswagenwerk and the British Leyland Motor Corporation as Europe's largest car producer. Normally, one out of every seven workers in Turin, Fiat's headquarters, works for Fiat. Largely because of the firm's expansion, the city has grown in the past 20 years from 750,000 to about 1½ million.

While Southern Italy and Sicily remained largely asleep, Northern Italy has been a veritable beehive, like industrialized Japan. And the blue ribbon goes to Fiat as Italy's biggest foreign-exchange earner.

Italy depends on its exports just in order to eat.

Giovanni Agnelli, 53, the founder's grandson, is the president of Fiat and he has made it his business to see that his enterprise is, indisputably, the best and most generous employer in the nation.

Fiat gives its workers the equivalent of about one-third their good pay in social welfare benefits, a $40-a-month rent in 5,000 company flats, daytime child care and an immense assortment of other benefits. But the answer at Fiat is strikes, strikes, strikes.

Last year Italy suffered a strike loss of more than 300 million man-hours, four times the 1970 total. Fiat lost 20 million man-hours and the production of 275,000 automobiles.

Of this lost time, more than 10 million man-hours related to strikes (mostly "wildcat" stoppages) not against the Fiat company but against the Italian government and in various kinds of protests, some against fellow-Fiat workers. And, of course, one man's strike is another man's layoff someplace else.

The Italian word "Milienestieri" means "a thousand jobs." The "scugnizzi" are children who hustle whatever they can get. Neither are in Italy's official employment figures. Actually, 25 per cent of Naples' population is unemployed.

Meanwhile, an estimated $15 billion in Italian capital has fled Italy in the past 10 years. Fiat President Agnelli privately told a Swiss banker friend of mine that he estimates this flight of capital even higher.

Mr. Agnelli has made many trips to the U.S.S.R. at the invitation of the Soviet government and has been royally received. At the Kremlin's specific request he arranged for Fiat's construction of an immense automotive plant for the U.S.S.R. It is at Togliatti—named for the hero of the Italian Communist party—on the Volga River.

Mr. Agnelli believed that this tremendous undertaking on the Soviets' behalf would soften the Red attacks on Fiat in Italy. In fact, Soviet Premier Aleksei N. Kosygin, bidding for credits and know-how, told Mr. Agnelli it would.

Mr. Agnelli now finds himself sold down the Volga.

Moscow, through the Italian

Communist party, the largest in the Western world, intends to make the demands insatiable and progressively cripple bellwether Fiat and Italy as a whole.

Italy relies on an overstuffed bureaucracy to keep things going. But this giant and growing bureaucracy itself has actually become a third force.

It has long since quit trying to make friends with either the public or the government and simply takes to the streets in its own disruptive style of civil war.

"Bustarelle" (little envelope) means graft and corruption in Italy. Both are rife and ceaselessly grow as the bureaucratic octopus feeds on itself.

Italy's entire national makeup shouts for a top-to-bottom overhaul by a government so paralyzed that it is unable to change anything at all.

Yet in the American interest there is no substitute for our needed Italy. The lovely country borders on Austria, France, Switzerland and Red Yugoslavia, with West Germany at Austria's rear. It flanks Yugoslavia and Red Albania on the Adriatic. It is the key to Greece.

Italy is the logistic center for our entire NATO naval complex in the Mediterranean, classically called by the Italians "Mare nostrum"—"our sea." A stable Italy that constitutes an indispensable seat of American power in the Soviet-threatened Mediterranean is all but gone as the U.S.S.R. eyes this strategic imperative with the eyes of a hungry rodent.

The race is on

Since Sen. Edward M. Kennedy has declared himself out of the presidential race for 1976, the field is wide open for Democratic hopefuls and growing wider. Mentioned so far as possible candidates are Sen. Walter F. Mondale of Minnesota, New York gubernatorial nominee Hugh L. Carey, Sen. Lloyd M. Bentsen Jr. of Texas, Gov. John J. Gilligan of Ohio, Mayor Kevin H. White of Boston and of course, front-runner Sen. Henry "Scoop" Jackson of Washington.

Former Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, now senator from Minnesota, has pledged his support to fellow Minnesotan Mondale and has stated he will not accept the number-two slot on the ticket. Vice-presidential choices being prominently mentioned are Gov. Reuben Askew of Florida, Rep. Morris Udall of Arizona and Gov. Daniel Walker of Illinois.

Corn harvest ahead of schedule

By DON KENDALL
AP Farm Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Harvest of the battered 1974 corn crop edged near the half-way mark last weekend, ahead of the normal schedule for this time of year, says the Agriculture Department.

A new corn production estimate will be issued by USDA Nov. 10 based on field surveys the first of the month. The report also will include updated estimates for soybeans, wheat and other major crops.

Meantime, the department said Wednesday in a weekly weather report that the corn harvest nationally was about 49 per cent completed as of Oct. 27. That was slightly ahead of 46 per cent normally harvested by that date.

Corn harvesting in the Corn Belt states was 45 per cent finished, ranging from about 19 per cent completed in Michigan to 86 per cent in South Dakota.

The soybean harvest was estimated at 61 per cent done by Oct. 27, ahead of normal but trailing the 1973 pace. About 78 per cent of the Corn Belt crop was harvested, compared with 81 per cent last year and the historical average of 75 per cent, the report said.

Officials said rain last week in the southern Plains delayed the windup of winter wheat planting but that the moisture helped the crop that was planted. The wheat was in "most-ly good" condition in Texas and Oklahoma, the report said.

But in Kansas the moisture supply has been spotty, meaning that winter wheat condition is showing "considerable variation," the report said. Dry conditions still prevailed in much of the northern Plains and Pacific Northwest.

WASHINGTON (AP) — One of the Agriculture Department's experts on Soviet Union agriculture has been reassigned to a diplomatic post in Europe.

Roger S. Euler, who had headed the Soviet program area in the department's Economic Research Service, has been named U.S. agricultural attache in Brussels, it was announced Wednesday.

A spokesman said Euler's background had been in foreign posts and that he had sought the Brussels assignment. Euler, a native of North Vernon, Ind., joined USDA in 1955. He was agricultural attache in Moscow in 1967-72 and had held a similar post earlier in Warsaw.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Meat production in the first nine months of 1974 was up 9 per cent from the first three quarters of last year, including a substantial gain in September, says the Agriculture Department.

Beef production was up 9 per cent; pork 18; and veal 10 per cent.

Heritage Square Open House Slated Friday and Saturday

On January 1, 1974, Heritage Square hired its first administrator, Ray W. Bowman, who had been the Board's consulting administrator. Mr. Bowman and the Board of Directors of Heritage Square, along with the staff, are hosting an Open House for the residents of Dixon and the surrounding areas on November 2, Saturday afternoon 2:00 P.M. to 4:30 P.M. and again on Sunday, November 3, 2:00 P.M. to 4:30 P.M.

Heritage Square is not a nursing home, but rather a modern facility designed to accommodate single people or couples over sixty years of age or more who are ambulatory, and in good health, who desire and are able to lead an active life without responsibilities connected with ownership of a home. It is a non-denominational facility and has been issued a not-for-profit charter by the State of Ill., has no admission fee, and operates solely for the convenience of the people of this area. There is a health care center with licensed trained personnel 24 hours a day on duty if needed by the residents. It is designed to be as much like a person's home as possible.

Though principally related to retirement living, Heritage Square also welcomes those who wish to continue with their normal business duties but who would appreciate coming "home" to the companionship of their contemporaries. And, because residents are accorded complete independence this means they may entertain friends and relatives... depart for favorite vacation spots... in short, come and go at will.

Inasmuch as the concept of Heritage Square is to make this facility as much like a person's home as possible, residents are encouraged to furnish their rooms with their own furnishings.

One of the most unique features of Heritage Square is evident in its striking design. Instead of a rambling institutional-type structure, so often prevalent in such facilities, you will find that Heritage Square is a pleasant grouping of single-story clusters extending from two wings adjoining a two-story administrative center.

As the illustration at left shows, each residence cluster consists of four separate rooms, each with its own entrance, private bath, spacious closet and cable TV hookup. As noted, the clusters are constructed in two main wings with an attractive courtyard in between. Because access to the administrative center is through interior corridors, residents are able to walk to the dining area, lounge or Administrator's office without having to step outside.

The building is of the utmost fireproof construction with countless protective features built into every area. An intercom system connects everyone with the office on a 24-hour basis.

The casual atmosphere and tasteful furnishings of the dining room make each meal at Heritage Square an enjoyable adventure for the palate. Residents may sit with whom they desire; and, upon reservations, friends are always welcome to dine with you at nominal cost. Special diets are, of course, available to Heritage Square residents, and these will be under the supervision of a registered dietitian.

Basic fees at Heritage Square are among the lowest for a retirement facility of this type. When you reside at Heritage Square you are relieved of property taxes, heat and light, re-decorating, yard maintenance and the myriad of other expenses and burdens attendant with your present mode of living. A fee schedule is available from the Administrator.

Although Heritage Square's concept is to make the facility available initially to those in good health, life care in our 15-bed Health Center immediately becomes available to any resident who becomes ill or incapacitated. This center is an integral part of Heritage Square and is staffed 24-hours daily by qualified nursing personnel.

The dream and foresight of several Dixon residents some 25 years ago, will become a reality this weekend, November 2 and 3, when Heritage Square opens its doors to the community. This completely modern building began construction with the ground-breaking taking place July 10, 1973.

Laura E. Rogers wished to leave her estate monies in a fund which she hoped would grow to become sufficient to someday build a retirement home for the folks in the Dixon area, so in 1949 a corporation was formed and established, known as Dixon Old People's Home Fund, Inc. as the receiver of her gift. Soon after this date, other Dixon residents followed her idea and added to this fund.

1962 was actually the first date that any noteworthy amount was received, and was given by the estate of Irma Grose. The same year money was received from Chris J. Johnson's estate; 1966, from Susan March's estate; 1967, from Glen F. Coe's estate; 1972, from the Laura E. Rogers estate, who had initiated the establishing of this fund; and in 1973 from the Squire Rush Harris estate. A Board of Directors was needed and the following were the first who served on this seven-man board: Henry O. Lovett, Donald B. Raymond, Glen F. Coe, Homer E. Senneff, Max Van Scoy, Liqouri J. Welch, and Robert L. Warner. Three of these first members are still very active and instrumental on this Board, and all serve without pay.

The present Board of Directors is composed of: Henry O. Lovett, President; Donald B. Raymond, Vice President; Robert L. Warner, Sec.-Treas.; D. M. Tarvin; Harry Newcomer; Harold L. Rhodes, and Patrick R. Jones.

In November of 1971 the Board sought the professional advice and consultation of a successful and experienced administrator, Ray W. Bowman, who was then Administrator of Pinecrest Manor, in Mt. Morris, and had been employed there for nearly 15 years. While there he guided the building program and helped establish a very outstanding sheltered care and nursing home, for the Church of the Brethren who along with that community formed the Board governing the non-profit home. In the Spring of 1972 the Dixon Old People's Home Fund, Inc. engaged the architects of Bradley & Bradley of Rockford to design plans for a non-profit home for the Dixon Community. Mr. Richard Wolfley has been the head architect for constructing this 47-room residential home with a 15-bed health care center, which the Board of Directors choose to name Heritage Square.

Property was acquired in the 600 block along the Ottawa, Morgan, and Brinton Streets where the North Central School once stood, for many years. In June 1973 the Cheeseman Construction Co. of Freeport, Illinois was awarded the bid for the contract to construct this retirement home and the ground-breaking event took place on July 10, 1973.

Peoria Library cursed, claims old legend

PEORIA, Ill. (AP) — If you're looking for a haunted house on Halloween night you might try the Peoria Public Library, which old-timers say was cursed more than a century ago by a woman called Old Lady Gray.

And they'll tell you that the curse has brought death to an ex-governor and his family, a banker's bride, an infant, the son and daughter of a boarding house operator and three librarians.

"Thorns and thistles, ill luck, sickness and death to its every owner and occupant," chanted Mrs. Andrew Gray as she damned the property where the library now stands.

And today amid the somber silence of shelves and books the visitor might imagine he still hears the quiet cackle of Old Lady Gray rejoicing over her handiwork.

The story apparently was first told in the old Peoria Herald in 1895, which said the property was settled by Mr. and Mrs. Gray in early 1830.

When Mrs. Gray's brother died sometime later she assumed care of his son, a worthless type who was constantly in trouble with the authorities.

Eventually the boy required the services of a lawyer, who obtained a mortgage on Mrs. Gray's property as security for his fees. When that mortgage came due, the lawyer demanded to take over. Mrs. Gray protested she had never signed the mortgage, but to no avail.

Angrily she drove her nephew from the house and his body was later found in the river. Then, the story goes, "with a fierceness as deep as volcanic fire she cursed the ground ... and mournfully left the place."

The site fell into disrepair and soon folks said they could hear the ghost of the dead nephew wandering through the night pleading for forgiveness. Then, people say, the curse began to take effect.

Years later ex-governor Thomas Ford rented the house. His sons were killed, the mourning Ford soon died, and two weeks later his wife also died.

When a wealthy banker later built an elaborate home on part of the lot his new bride died within 12 months. He married again, only to have his baby die.

Next on the property was a boarding house keeper, whose daughter drowned in a lake and whose son died falling from a balcony.

The library bought the property in 1894 and librarian E. S. Wilcox was killed when he was hit by a streetcar. His successor, S. Patterson Prouse, died of a heart attack during an argument at a board meeting in 1921.

And the next librarian, D. Edwin Wiley, died unexpectedly in October, 1924.

William W. Bryan, 62, current library director, said he's seen no effects of the curse in 20 years on the job. But he noted that no one told him about it when he was hired for the post.

"They didn't tell me that in the interview," he said.

NAACP complains of Caterpillar bias

By T. LEE HUGHES
Associated Press Writer
PEORIA, Ill. (AP) — The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People says it has asked the federal government to stop giving contracts to Caterpillar Tractor Co. until allegations of discrimination against the firm are resolved.

The request was part of a nine-point complaint charging Caterpillar with discrimination in hiring, promotions and overseas assignments, an NAACP official said Wednesday.

The complaint was filed by the Peoria NAACP with the federal Equal Employment Opportunity Commission and the state Fair Employment Practices Commission, said John Gwynn, president of the Illinois and Peoria NAACP.

"If we have to go all the way with Caterpillar on this we'll do it because Caterpillar should play a leading role in this community," said Gwynn.

Caterpillar officials have previously said the firm's minority advancement program complies with federal standards. A spokesman said Wednesday that the firm had no immediate comment on the complaint.

Caterpillar had sales last year of more than $3.1 billion and is the nation's largest manufacturer of earthmoving equipment. The firm employs more than 32,000 in the Peoria area.

Gwynn said the complaint charges that minority employees make up only 1.1 per cent of the firm's 1,500 management personnel at company headquarters here. It charges there are no black women in middle or upper management, he said.

Gwynn said the complaint also charges that minority workers make up only 3 per cent of the Caterpillar work force in the Peoria area. About 6 per cent of the Peoria metropolitan area is black and 15 per cent of the city is black, Gwynn said.

"We specifically point out that Caterpillar has bypassed a number of black minority employees that were qualified to be upgraded and white employees have been upgraded past them," said Gwynn.

"We don't have any minorities going for overseas assignments," he said. "We feel minority people should have that particular chance too."

The NAACP also asked the government to stop payment on present contracts with Caterpillar until the issue is resolved, he said.

Miss Wanda McGill weds Mr. Haub

ROCHELLE — Arrangements of pastel gladioli decorated the altar of St. Patrick's Catholic Church for the recent marriage of Miss Wanda McGill, daughter of the Harold McGills, Ashton, to Gary Haub, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Haub, West Brooklyn.

The Rev. Francis Kennedy, pastor of the church, officiated, and the nuptial organist, Mrs. Dorothy Eich, Ashton, accompanied the soloist, Miss Martha Somers, Ashton.

Organza Gown
The bride's wedding gown, fashioned of white silk organza trimmed with Cluny lace, was styled with an A-line skirt accented by lace ruffles and a detachable chapel train. The skirt was topped by an empire bodice featuring a lace-edged tucked yoke, a lace wedding-ring collar and shepherdess sleeves of organza and lace. Her full-length mantilla was bordered with lace, and as she approached the altar with her father, she carried a nosegay of miniature red roses, white carnations and baby's breath centered by a corsage.

Mrs. Cheri Ewald, Ashton, attended the bride as matron of honor, and bridesmaids were Miss Jodi Haub, West Brooklyn, and Miss Sandy Fane, Ashton. They were attired in full-length empire gowns of pastel pink, lavender, yellow and blue flocked gingham designed with hemline ruffles and puffed sleeves. Streamers of matching fabric trimmed their picture hats, and they carried white wicker baskets filled with foliage and calico flowers matching their costumes.

A similar costume was worn by the ceremonial flower girl, Miss Tammi Cater, Franklin Grove, and participating as ringbearer was Mark Haub, West Brooklyn.

David Haub, Alexandria, Minn., was the bridegroom's best man; Robin Winkle, Tempe, Ariz., and Randall Haenitsch, Steward, served as groomsmen, and ushering was done by Richard Ewald, Ashton and Michael Schultz, Compton.

Reception

The social room in the Ashton Bank building was the setting for a reception following the ceremony when assistants included Miss Debbie Miller, Miss Cheri Watson, Miss Freda Carver, Miss Theresa Way, Miss Kathy Hoffman and Miss Somers, all of Ashton; Miss Sharon Eller, Amboy; Miss Irma Penafier, Sterling, and Miss Terri Cater, Franklin Grove.

The bride, a graduate of Ashton High School and Sauk Valley College, is employed as a Licensed Practical Nurse at the Franklin Grove Nursing Center, and her husband, also a graduate of Ashton High School, operates a farm on Rt. 1, Ashton, where they have been residing since their return from a wedding trip to the Ozarks and Six Flags Over Mid-America, St. Louis, Mo.

MR. AND MRS. GARY HAUB

Miss Humphrey, Mr. Crundwell exchange vows

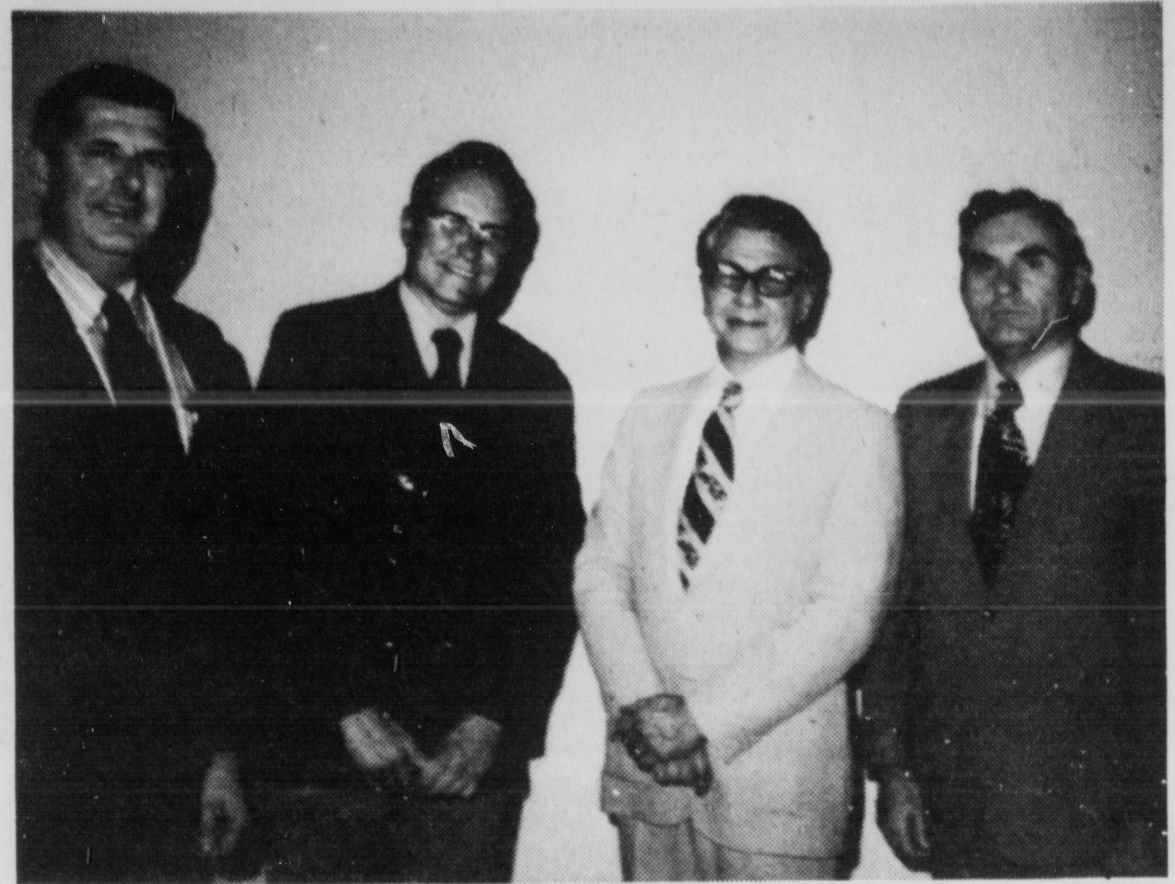

Miss Rita Humphrey, daughter of Mrs. Ray J. Humphrey, Rt. 4, Dixon, and the late Mr. Humphrey, became the bride of Jerry L. Crundwell in a candlelight wedding performed by the Rev. Jan Horne Oct. 12 in Immanuel Lutheran Church, Dixon.

They were attended by Mr. and Mrs. Richard A. Humphrey, brother and sister-in-law of the bride.

For her wedding, the bride selected a floor-length empire gown of white batiste trimmed with lace embroidered with miniature yellow roses. The gown, designed with a high lace-trimmed neckline, bishop sleeves and a wide hemline flounce, was complemented by a white lace picture hat trimmed with a satin back-bow and attached streamers. The bouquet she carried combined yellow roses and foliage tied with yellow ribbons.

The ceremony was followed by a reception in the Nachusa House hosted by the couple's attendants, Mr. and Mrs. Humphrey.

The newlyweds are residing in Dixon, where the bride is employed as a secretary for Mayor Warren Walder, and her husband is employed as a surveyor for Homer Chastain and Associates, an engineering firm.

Panel discussion on energy presented at AAUW meeting

Members of the Dixon branch, American Association of University Women, sponsored an open meeting Monday night in Loveland Community House when the program featured a panel discussion on "Global Interdependence: Budgeting for Earth."

Members of the panel, who were introduced by Mrs. James Higby, first vice president and program director, included Edward J. Koska Jr., Aurora, director of public relations for the Northern Illinois Gas Company; Donald E. Lindvall, Rockford, division director of community relations for Commonwealth Edison Company; Byron Hutchins, Oregon, area extension adviser in resource development for the University of Illinois cooperative extension service, and Albert Tiekens, Dixon, vocational agriculture instructor at Dixon High School.

Three E's

Mr. Koska identified the three E's which challenge world leaders today as Energy, Ecology and Economics. The demand for natural gas has been skyrocketing because industry and homeowners converted from oil and coal to gas. As the demand increased, the supply decreased. The United States has a reserve of 10 percent of the world's supply of gas, but this will last only 10 years. Some way must be found to produce "synthetic" natural gas, and Mr. Koska suggested four things that can be done to combat the problem of decreasing resources—the public must learn to conserve by using insulation and less heat; alternate resources must be developed; new forms of energy such as solar and wind energy must be developed, and an understanding must be reached between ecology and energy concerns.

Energy production can enrich the environment—for example—strip coal mines can be covered and converted into parks. In conclusion Mr. Koska quoted Henry Ford who said "There must be a better way." The problem then is "what is it?"

Mr. Lindvall noted that his company must double its capacity for producing electrical power every 10 years in order to keep up with the demand. While the peak load for gas is in winter, for electricity it is summer because of air conditioning. The Midwest is much better equipped to meet this demand than either the east or the west coast. Since Commonwealth Edison presently has equipment to meet summer demands, it has adequate power for winter. He suggested that in this area it would be unnecessary to limit Christmas decorations as far as lighting is concerned. By 1980, 50 per cent of electrical energy will be produced by coal and 50 per cent by nuclear power.

Mr. Lindvall then discussed the impact on Ogle County of the new nuclear plant at Byron, and cleared up many misconceptions in respect to the operation of such plants. He discussed taxes, construction, employment, safety, and stated that nuclear energy provides maximum electrical power with minimum environmental impact. He also said that there are 40 nuclear plants currently in operation in the United States.

Mr. Hutchins stated that the growth rate in the use of energy is 4½ per cent annually. Sixty per cent of oil used in the United States is for automobiles and airplanes, and the oil supply in this country could be depleted in 30 years. The world supply could be gone in 60 years.

He suggested alternate uses of solar energy, geothermal energy and wind power, but these will require many years of research to develop.

Homemakers

Mr. Tiekens discussed ways homemakers can conserve energy by installing weather stripping, storm windows and attic insulation, and he also suggested an efficient use of air conditioners, water heaters, cooking stoves and refrigerators.

The panel discussion was followed by a question-and-answer period, which preceded a brief business session conducted by the AAUW branch president, Mrs. Merlin Willard. Miss Zoia Favoright was appointed to represent the organization on the newly formed Council on Aging, and introduced as new members were Mrs. Charles Willett and Miss Katherine Densmore.

Co-hostesses for the evening were Mrs. Patrick Jones, Mrs. Dan Terry, Mrs. Edward Tyne, Miss Olive Bollman, Mrs. Donald Buchheit and Miss Ruby Nattress.

Sure-fire beats percentage

By Oswald & James Jacoby
North and South really belong in seven diamonds. That contract makes against any 3-2 trump break provided the opening lead is not ruffed. If you and your favorite partner get to seven hearts, you have no play for that contract irrespective of how anything breaks. We feel that most players will land at six hearts.

In that case it is up to South to find a sure-fire way to bring that contract in.

It is done by means of a safety play. South wins the club lead in dummy and ruffs a club. Then he draws trumps. After this start he should cash one of dummy's high diamonds and play ace-king-small of spades.

If diamonds were going to break nicely there was no need for this safety play but it is necessary against the actual 4-1 break. Furthermore, it is a rather unusual safety play since the safety play trick was a sure loser in any event.

See how it works! If East wins he has to give South a ruff and discard. If West wins he can lead a diamond but irrespective of which diamond he leads, his diamond trick will have disappeared.

Dear Ann

by Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: I am an attorney who is disturbed by the number of elderly clients who bring in their wills to be revised. They have drawn lines through the names of nieces, nephews, and sometimes even grandchildren. When I ask if there is any particular reason, they often say, "I never hear from them. I guess they aren't interested."

I am not advocating that young people butter up aging relatives just so they will be remembered in a will, but I suspect that too often young folks are reluctant to be attentive because they don't want to be accused of "being nice to Uncle Richard or Aunt Mathilda because they want to be left something."

Please tell your young readers that older people need love and attention, and the older they get the more they need it. Ask them to make an effort to go see an aging relative — spend an hour, send a postcard, write a letter. It will be good for everybody. — One Who Knows

Dear One: You've made an extraordinary point. Relatives should not be discriminated against because they are rich. Thank you for writing.

Dear Ann Landers: You raised one daughter — no sons. This explains your lack of understanding when women write to say their kids make them so nervous they just can't help but thrash them within an inch of their lives.

I have two boys and I am pregnant again. I just know this third child is a boy because I am carrying it all in front, like with the other two. Being pregnant makes me short-tempered and I admit I have beat up on my two boys more than I should, but I just can't control myself. Boys are a lot harder to raise than girls, but then you wouldn't know about that.

I talked to my pastor about the problem last week and he said, "Children are born full of the devil and it's up to parents to beat it out of them."

What do you have to say about THAT, Ann Landers? — Breaking Point

Dear Point: I say your pastor should be in another line of work — like chopping wood or shoveling coal, something that requires physical energy. He needs an outlet for his hostility — something besides his mouth, that is.

For you, I recommend Parents Anonymous. The address is 2009 Farrell Avenue, Redondo Beach, California 90278. Or CALM, P.O. Box 718, Santa Barbara, California 93102. These organizations are for parents who beat their children and know they need help. Good luck to you.

Dear Ann Landers: Several days ago a friend of mine sent away for something she saw advertised in a magazine. It was guaranteed to enlarge her bust size. She sent $10.

When the "kit" arrived, she nearly fainted. It was a man's hand-made out of plastic.

I think this is a stinkin racket and I told my friend that she has the right to insist on a refund. What is your opinion? — Very Disturbed

Dear Very: I think she should save her stamps. Unless the ad said, "Guaranteed satisfaction or money refunded," she might as well forget it. Even WITH a guarantee, it is often an endless procedure.

At the risk of boring my readers to death, I'll say it one more time. Creams, exercise gimmicks, and assorted paraphernalia you see advertised to enlarge the bust are just wonderful — for the outfits that sell them. They do very little, however, for the Flat Florences of this world — except to relieve them of their money.

Attention! Prospective brides

Because of misunderstanding on wedding pictures. The Telegraph is asking prospective brides to arrange for good black-and-white wedding pictures for use with wedding stories.

Color photographs and black-and-white prints off a color negative are unsatisfactory for good newspaper reproduction.

Rather than be disappointed by having a picture rejected by the newspaper, we are advising brides to insist on a black-and-white picture shot with black-and-white film.

Polly's Pointers

Polly's Problem
DEAR POLLY—I made the mistake of putting a red sheepskin on our newly-covered nautahyde couch. It left a red stain on the ivory-colored piece. How can I remove the stain?—VIRGINIA.

DEAR POLLY: My Pet Peeve is with department stores, gift shops, etc., that display and sell Christmas items starting with "Christmas in July." July is not too early to begin THINKING of Christmas but seeing such things on display for six months makes this big day seem almost like any other day.—DEBBIE.

DEAR POLLY: I have a tip for Shirley who spilled rose nail polish on her white slacks. I did the same thing to pale blue ones. I used that spray-on spot remover that is now a commonly used laundry product and then put the slacks in the washer set at medium heat. No sign of the polish when they came out.—D.P.

DEAR GIRLS: Many authorities suggest the use of acetone (banana oil not polish remover) for removing nail polish from fabrics EXCEPT for acetates. Lay area with spot upside down on a pad of towels (cloth or paper). First moisten stain from the back with water, use the acetone. When spot is gone rinse. Change pad as it becomes soiled with polish. Some also use rubbing alcohol with a few drops of ammonia added.—POLLY.

DEAR POLLY: When applying vinyl appliques to the bottom of the bathtub to prevent slipping add three or four to the rim of the tub. Both you and the children will have a better hold getting in and out of the tub.

Never throw away an old, worn long-handled bath, sink or tub brush. It is perfect for cleaning behind the washer and dryer, washing out waste baskets, trash cans and even a child's swimming pool.—MARILYN.

DEAR POLLY: I have a small notebook, with alphabetically marked sections. After entertaining guests for dinner I enter their names, the date and the menu served. This way the same guests are not served the same menu twice in succession. Also I note any particular likes and dislikes of friends and family.—MRS. W.H.

DEAR READERS: Just a reminder to you to put your name, address and zip code on your letters. Many pointers that would have been printed had not been used for just that reason. We cannot send your Polly Dollar. Also please do not ask me where to buy a product in your own town. The number of letters requesting such information makes individual replies an impossibility. Love your letters and marvel at your ingenuity—keep them coming but do sign them.—POLLY.

BILLY GRAHAM says about the new motion picture "Time to Run"...

There is no doubt that today we see the family unit being attacked from every side, torn apart and fragmented. TIME TO RUN is a motion picture about a family, about listening, about the silences between people, the unspoken moments, and the moments of anger that don't really accomplish anything. TIME TO RUN openly offers the reality of Jesus Christ as an answer to the human dilemma.

I feel that thousands of people will see a part of themselves in the film. Hopefully, families seeing it will be brought closer together in real understanding and communication.

I urge you to take your children... or your parents... to see TIME TO RUN when it comes to your community. You may find it more of a mirror than a motion picture!

UNICEF fund drive ends

UNICEF Halloween programs in Dixon collected $993.95 according to The Dixon Church Council, sponsors of the "Trick and Treat for UNICEF" drive.

The "small change dropped in the orange and black UNICEF collection cartons carried by area children will help make change in the lives of many destitute youngsters of the Third World. Thanks to the concern of Dixon citizens, hundreds of children in Africa, Asia and Latin America will be able to obtain nourishing food, decent health care and educational assistance.

"This year, more than ever, during UNICEF's first declared Emergency for Children in Developing Countries, our assistance is needed," according to the Dixon Council of Churches. "Through their participation in a UNICEF Halloween, citizens of Dixon have helped children all over the world escape the fates of malnutrition, famine and even death."

The Lord's House
... a Treasury of Man's Noblest Aspirations in Religious Architecture

The lofty 448-foot spire of St. Stephen's commands the visitor's initial glimpse of the heart of Vienna. This immense tower at the southeast corner of the great cathedral required 65 years to erect (1368 to 1433) and was to have had an exact counterpart on the northeast corner but the latter remained blunt and uncompleted. A 345-step stairway leads to the observatory at the top of the tower—the spire itself rises far above the termination of the tower.

Built on the site of an ancient church which was dedicated in 1147 and burned down in 1193, the structure was rebuilt in the early 13th century. The present St. Stephen's did not take definite form until the 15th century. The giant south tower was completed in 1433; the nave was finished by Hans Puchsbaum from 1439 thru 1455; roof construction began in 1446; and in 1450 the north tower was designed and its building plans put into execution. St. Stephen's is 345 feet long and its central aisle rises to a lofty 92 feet.

This venerable church has had its share of sieges and war damage. It underwent two extensive bombardments by the Turks in the 16th and 17th centuries—during which most of its gorgeous medieval stained glass windows were destroyed. And during World War II, when Vienna was the battleground between Russian and German forces, St. Stephen's suffered grievous damage. The roof ignited and fell into the nave—along with the gigantic 22-ton bell "Pummerin"; the east end was virtually destroyed; and the famous organ damaged beyond repair. The great tower itself miraculously did not collapse. Reconstruction began in 1945 and extended into 1952, restoring St. Stephen's pre-World War II appearance. The bell "Pummerin", was recast and now stately reposes in the north tower.

St. Stephen's abounds in rich treasures of sculpture, carvings, wrought iron, bejeweled altars and splendid tombs.

3 Junior Achievement companies operating at Dixon High School

Three Junior Achievement companies were recently organized in Dixon, according to Charles Missman, local JA program manager.

"These young people have taken the first step in operating their own miniature business," said Missman. JA companies are modeled after the adult corporations but are completely teen operated with the aid of adult volunteers from business who serve as Advisors.

The first meeting saw the young people choose a company name, select a product, apply for a charter from the National Organization, and begin the sale of capital stock to raise the necessary funds to start their own company. Within the next several months the members will have the opportunity to manufacture and sell their own product, serve on the board of directors and wear the various hats of labor and management in operating the company.

The shares of stock in the company are priced at $1.00 per share on one per share holder basis. Although, as in any company, no guarantee can be made as to the success of various companies. Past experience indicates that 60-70 per cent of the JA stockholders will profit from their investment. That figure is much higher than the statistics for actual first year businesses. Most of the JA companies are capitalizing at approximately $100.

These funds are used to buy raw materials, shop and office supplies and to cover the initial overhead until sales money starts rolling in.

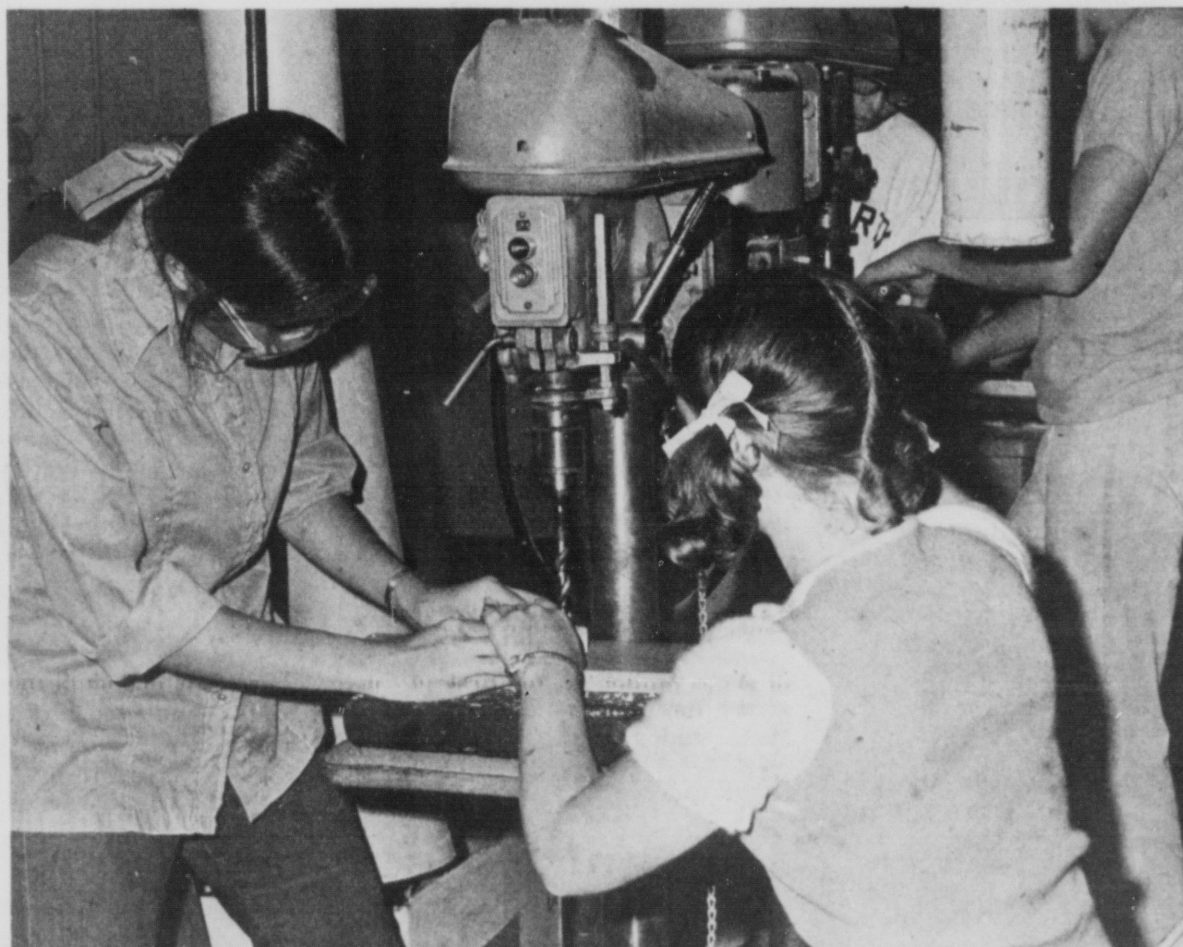

At the conclusion of the JA program year, the companies are liquidated and all

Three youths face charges

Three youths were arrested Thursday night by Lee County Sheriff's Deputies outside the law enforcement center and charged with possession of liquor as minors.

Michele Raymond Sawlsville, 18, Jeffery A. Frey, and a male juvenile, all of Rochelle, were all taken into custody by deputies following a scuffle outside the law enforcement center.

The youths were being held in jail under bond and will appear in court today.

stockholders receive a report of their company operation and, if the company is profitable, a check for their stock with a possible dividend.

This year's products cover a large range. This year's companies and products are: DYCO, counseled by E. Edelmann & Co. with an antique car plaque as their product; TONCO, no counseling firm, with Tic-Tac-Toe boards and F & W Company, no counseling firm and a "Fluffy Buffy" a tissue box cover as the product.

As the year progresses a second and sometimes a third product is made and sold. The JA companies in Dixon operate each Thursday night at Dixon High School.

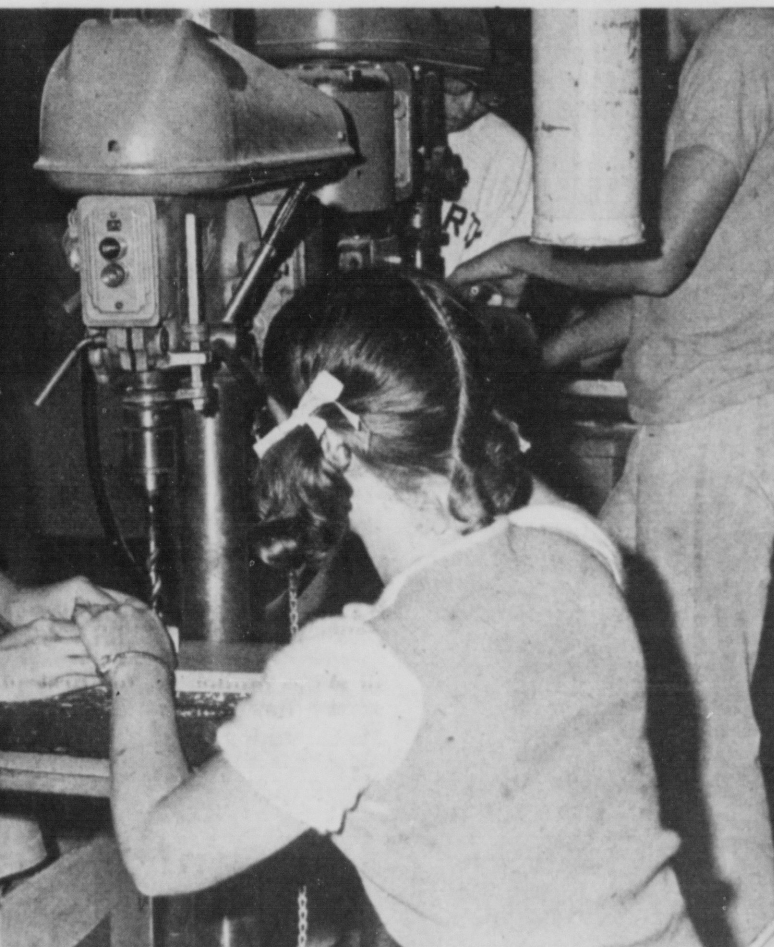

The most urgent need to continue this worthwhile program is for counseling firms and particularly adult advisors. E. Edelmann & Co. is the only local industry providing a team of advisors for one of the three companies. This is the second year they have participated in the program. Missman stated the need for advisors is at the critical stage and at least three volunteers are needed to assure the continuance of the program for all three companies. Volunteers are needed for two hours per week. Interested persons may call Harry Campbell, JA board chairman, 288-3341 days or Charles Missman, program manager, 288-3622 evenings.

Visitors are welcome to the program on Thursday nights at the high school.

Deaths, Funerals

MT. MORRIS—Walter S. Koontz, 85, 402 W. Center, died Thursday at Continental Manor Nursing Home in Polo following a long illness.

He was born Aug. 30, 1889, in Adeline, the son of John and Susan (Pyper) Koontz. He married the former Grace Schriber on Dec. 4, 1911, at Rockford. He was a self-employed gardener, moving to Mt. Morris 12 years ago from Leaf River. He was a member of the Church of God, Oregon.

His wife preceded him in death.

Survivors include two sons, Othello, Sycamore, and Aubrey, Mt. Morris, and five grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held Monday at 2 p.m. at the Finch Funeral Chapel, with the Rev. Willis Thomas, Leaf River, officiating. Burial will be in Adeline Cemetery.

Visitation will be held Sunday from 2 to 5 and from 7 to 9 at the funeral chapel.

Film on Siberian prisoner planned

A film adaptation of the novel by Alexander Solzhenitsyn (winner of the 1970 Nobel Prize for Literature), entitled "One Day in the Life of Ivan Denisovich" outlines the events of a single day—an especially good day—in the life of a Siberian labor camp prisoner during the Stalin regime.

This international production is the moving story of "man's inhumanity to man," and one man's indomitable will to survive. It stars Tom Courtney (Billy Liar, Dr. Zhivago, Otley) as Ivan, and was filmed in the sub-zero cold at Roros near the Arctic Circle in Norway.

It will be shown on Saturday at 7:30 p.m. in the Sauk Valley College Little Theatre. SVC students are admitted free and non-students will be charged $1.

Failure to appear brings arrest

Ruth I. Dyer, 37, Mt. Morris, was arrested Thursday by Lee County Sheriff's Deputies after she failed to appear in court on a theft by deception charge.

The Dyer woman has been accused of writing bad checks totalling over $270 at Eagle, Imperial Liquors and House of Bottles.

She was placed under bond and will appear in court at a later date.

Family disagreement

Forrest Conley, 50, Rt. 1, was arrested for disorderly conduct Thursday following a family disagreement at his home.

Conley was arrested on a complaint signed by his wife, Dilla, accusing him of threatening to kill her with a knife. Conley posted bond and will appear in court Nov. 12.

Lee County Sheriff's Deputies made the arrest.

Heckman gets DTA endorsement

The Dixon Teachers Association has endorsed Michael Heckman as candidate for superintendent of an educational region, Lee County.

On Thursday the DTA representative assembly voted to support Heckman as the candidate due to his "intense desire to turn the county superintendent's office back into an influential educational force," a spokesman said.

Most teachers feel the office of county superintendent has served only two major functions in the past, the issuance of teaching certificates and the formation of a county film library.

Teachers feel the office has been at a standstill educationally for many years, and favor the aggressive goals of Heckman such as attempting to curb the dropout problems of the county, abolishment of large county institutes and the development of new in-service programs for teachers.

Most members feel the liberal goals of Heckman will reinforce and strengthen the Lee County Superintendent's Office.

The DTA encourages changes in the duties and responsibilities of the office and feels that Heckman is the candidate that will make the changes which are necessary for a co-ordination of the educational system of the local schools with the Office of the Superintendent of Public Instruction.

Accused in theft

ROCHELLE—Following an investigation into the theft at the Pour House, Rochelle, Sharon Bonnell, 25, 128 S. Sixth St., was arrested on a theft charge.

According to police, the Bonnell woman was accused of taking $375 in cash. She was being held under $3,000 bond at the Rochelle City Jail.

Faces three charges

MT. MORRIS — Carl F. Anderson, 105 Moring Court, Oregon, was cited on three counts Thursday by Mr. Morris Police following an accident in the 100 block of Lincoln St.

According to reports, the Anderson car was westbound on Lincoln when it swerved and struck a parked car owned by Mrs. Marcia Zimmerman, 103 1/2 Lincoln St. Anderson then left the scene of the accident, but later had to stop on McKendree Street because of heavy damage to his car.

Anderson was arrested for operating a motor vehicle while intoxicated, transportation of liquor with a broken seal and failure to give information after striking an unattended vehicle.

STUDENT OF MONTH—Mike Kreger, senior at Dixon High School, has been named as the October Student of the Month. # Firms win bids while awaiting trial

By SKIP WOLLENBERG
Associated Press Writer
SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — Four roadbuilding firms convicted in recent months for rigging bids they submitted on several government projects won $34 million worth of Illinois road contracts while they awaited trial.

The firms were among 22 companies named in seven indictments returned by a federal grand jury in January.

The indictments charged that the firms and four of their chief executives conspired in violation of federal antitrust laws to discuss the bids they would submit on 11 projects awarded between January 1969 and March 1972. The indictments also charged that the firms agreed among themselves who would submit the low bids on the projects, which were awarded for more than $20 million.

The four firms are the F.F.

Mengel Co. of Wisconsin Rapids, Wis., General Paving Co. of Champaign, E.T. Simonds Construction Co. of Carbondale and J.D. Barter Construction Co., Inc. of Harrisburg.

A check of state records showed the firms won contracts for 14 projects between Jan. 17, when they were indicted, and the dates they were convicted by U.S. District Court juries.

Langhorne Bond, secretary of the Illinois Department of Transportation, said in an interview the state "can reject any bid (for highway work) any time." But he defended the practice of allowing indicted firms to bid on projects while facing trial.

He contended that the firms would be denied their constitutional rights if punished before conviction.

Mengel and General Paving were convicted by a U.S. District Court jury in July on charges they rigged bids on a Douglas County road project.

Between the date the indictments were returned and their convictions, General Paving won two projects with bids totaling $9.98 million, and Mengel won one project for $8.4 million.

Illinois Focus

Simonds and Barter were convicted Oct. 15 by another federal court jury, with their presidents, Eugene T. Simonds and H.H. Barter. The firms were accused of rigging bids on three projects, two on Interstate 24 and a third on Interstate 13 in Southern Illinois.

Simonds won seven projects worth $3.3 million, Barter won three projects worth $7.5 million and the firms combined to win another project worth $3.2 million between the date they were indicted and the date they were convicted.

A fifth firm, indicted with Barter and Simonds, was acquitted of the charges. Superior Structures, Inc. of Marion won two projects worth $2.2 million while it awaited trial.

The state has rules which permit DOT officials to suspend construction firms from bidding on state contracts for up to a year if they are convicted of collusive bidding practices.

But the officials are reluctant to impose this penalty before the entire court process, including the disposition of post-trial motions, is completed.

"I think it is very important that we realize an indictment is returned after a one-sided presentation of evidence by a prosecutor. The federal prosecutors have that evidence, we don't. An indictment is not a conviction," Bond said.

He noted that when the state suspended nine companies convicted last year of bid-rigging, the firms challenged the suspensions in court. The case became moot because the suspensions expired before a judgment was reached, but the state took notice of the firms' argument that they deserved a hearing before being suspended.

The four firms convicted in the latest court proceeding will be given a hearing before the state acts to discipline them, Bonds said.

"It doesn't make a great deal of difference when the suspension is imposed," Bond said. "What matters is if a firm is suspended. Then for a certain period of time they will be unable to bid on projects involving state money."

CALDER GETS CALDER . . . It's been more than six years since Alexander Calder, in France, studied maps and photographs of the Northern Illinois University campus to select a site and determine the direction for his 16-foot tall stabile, "Le Baron." Although he still hasn't seen personally how his creation appears at its permanent campus site, his recent Chicago visit provided a chance to present him with several photographs of the NIU campus landmark. Making the presentation was Ben Mahmoud, a professor in Northern's art department, which is believed the second largest in the nation.

Shapiro endorsements praised by Olson

Myron Olson of Dixon, chairman of the Citizens for Senator Shapiro Committee, today praised endorsements of State Sen. David C. Shapiro (R-Amboy) by three area newspapers and stated that the endorsements summarized the difference between the two candidates for the State Senate seat.

"The endorsement by the Northern Star is particularly significant," Olson stated, "since it's the student newspaper at Northern Illinois University where Senator Shapiro's Democratic opponent, Ray A. 'Dutch' Scott, is employed."

Olson said he felt the key passage in the Northern Star endorsement was, "While Democratic State Senator hopeful Ray A. 'Dutch' Scott has spent most of his campaign criticizing his opponent, State Senator David Shapiro has been talking issues."

"I think this sums up the climate of the entire campaign," Olson stated. "While Senator Shapiro has been positive, concentrating on the issues and his record as a legislator, Scott has been negative. The student newspaper should be commended for putting this in the proper perspective and for deciding to support the candidate with the most substance."

The senator is endorsed in today's issue of The Telegraph.

The Rockford Morning Star also gave Shapiro its endorsement by stating, "In the 37th State Senatorial District, an active, articulate and effective incumbent is seeking re-election."

"State Sen. Dave Shapiro (R-Amboy) has experience in both the House and the Senate and has proven himself to be a lawmaker who deserves re-election."

Over $1 million in lottery prizes unclaimed

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — Holders of more than $1.1 million in winning Illinois lottery tickets have failed to cash them in, Lottery Supt. Ralph Batch estimates.

"We are figuring that 10 per cent of the allocated prize pool of $11.25 million for the first 10 weeks has gone unclaimed," Batch said Thursday in an interview.

The percentage could go down, he said, because holders of winning tickets have one year from the date of the drawing to redeem them for cash or to qualify themselves for one of the large-prize drawings.

Batch said money that is not used for prizes is placed in the state treasury, although the lottery law only requires that 40 per cent of the gross intake from ticket sales be turned over to the state.

The 10 per cent level of unclaimed prizes "is pretty common throughout all state lotteries," said Batch, former director of the New Jersey Lottery.

He said most of the unclaimed cash was in the form of winning weekly lotto tickets. He was unable, however, to say how many of the top $5,000 lotto prizes had gone unclaimed.

Also figured into the unclaimed prize total is the $1,000 guaranteed to each Bonanza qualifier and the $1,500 to each Millionaire qualifier. "The name of the game for us is prizes," Batch said. "We're anxious to pay out all prizes."

Lottery officials had hoped to use 45 per cent of ticket income for prizes, 45 per cent for the state and 10 per cent for administration and promotion.

According to the monthly report prepared by the lottery office, the state received $9.2 million from the lottery during the first two months of operation — about 45 per cent.

Projected on a yearly basis, this would figure roughly to be $55.26 million. Gov. Daniel Walker had estimated that the state treasury would be fattened by $60 million a year from the lottery.

"I do not believe that that was an unrealistic objective," Batch said. "We have a very excellent opportunity to meet the governor's prediction."

Batch said inflation has affected the lottery. "There are some indications that the economics of the hour perhaps have adversely affected sales," he said. "I don't believe the shopper has as much money left over after filling the grocery bag."

Unemployment up in some Illinois cities

CHICAGO (AP) — Unemployment increased in some Illinois cities last month, but the statewide jobless rate remained unchanged, the state Bureau of Employment Security reports.

Rockford incurred the state's largest rise from 3.8 to 4.8 per cent in seasonally adjusted figures through Oct. 12, the report said Thursday.

The Champaign-Urbana area also had an increase from 3.1 to 3.6 per cent. Decatur's rate rose from 3.6 to 3.9, the bureau said.

But the agency estimated the state unemployment figure at 4.7 per cent, the same as in September, with 231,000 out of work. In Chicago, the jobless rate also remained at 5 per cent, the agency said.

Other reports included: —Bloomington-Normal, an increase from 3 to 3.1 per cent. —Davenport-Rock Island-Moline, an increase from 3.2 to 3 per cent.

—Peoria, a decrease from 3.8 to 3.7 per cent. —Springfield, a decrease from 3.4 to 3.3 per cent. —East St. Louis, a decrease from 7 to 6.8 per cent.

More precincts, but fewer voters

There will be four per cent more precincts but five per cent fewer registered voters for the Tuesday general election, it was announced by Michael E. Lavelle, chairman of the State Board of Elections.

According to Lavelle, Illinois will have 11,297 precincts and 5,879,561 registered voters next week, as compared to 10,888 precincts and 6,215,331 voters for the November, 1972 election. There were 10,916 precincts and 5,337,692 registered voters for the November, 1970 general election.

Lavelle said the increase in precincts is due to population shifts throughout the state. He noted that the decrease in registered voters can be traced to the fact that 1974 is a non-presidential election year and that Illinois' total population has decreased.

"Presidential year elections," he explained, "historically result in the highest voter registration."

Luebke to talk to planning unit

Also, Robert Lowe, Lee County soil conservationist, will report on the progress of a detailed soil survey being taken in the county.

Anti-theft program proves a failure

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — A $125,000 program to motivate people to participate in the program" Fogel said in a statement.

If the public does not respond to "this rather simple approach to crime prevention, is it any wonder that the system has difficulty dealing with crime and offenders at more complex levels of control and rehabilitation?" he asked.

An ILEC official said roughly 90 per cent of the $125,000 came from the federal government. The remaining 10 per cent was split between state and local funds, the aide said.

The evaluation of the program was conducted by Hans W. Mattick, a professor at the University of Illinois Chicago Circle campus.

"Among other things, these results tend to indicate the general public does not place the same high priority on crime prevention activities when it requires personal commitment as they seem to express when responding to crime victimization surveys conducted by the polling agencies and mass media," Mattick said.

"Operation Identification failed to impact upon the burglary rate because it failed to motivate people to participate in the program" Fogel said in a statement.

Beginning in May, 1972, the money was distributed to communities throughout Illinois. It was used by local police and sheriff's departments to buy special marking pens to be used by the public and for promotion and advertising.

An evaluation of the program, called Operation Identification, showed that less than 24,000 persons participated in the marking experiment. Dr. David Fogel, ILEC director, blamed the lack of response on public apathy.

"Operation Identification failed to impact upon the burglary rate because it failed to motivate people to participate in the program" Fogel said in a statement.

Old-fashioned Halloween was all tricks, no treats

By BETTY DAVIS

Thirty-five years ago, the young people of southwestern Wisconsin had never heard of "Trick or Treat." They were thoroughly acquainted with tricks. But treats? No.

Homeowners in the village of Ellenboro might have liked a choice on Halloween, but they never had heard of trick or treat, either.

Before the sun went down on the eve of All Saints Day, each householder surveyed his lawn and porch with an eye for objects not nailed down or set in concrete. Anything loose or portable would vanish before morning.

Even with those precautions, a wash tub or an old innertube usually flew from the schoolhouse flagpole before the night was over. Sometimes little lacy things, that someone had rinsed out, hung on the line and forgotten to take indoors, got flown.

Dragging cornshocks, pumpkin and squash from a farmer's field to stack against the schoolhouse door was another favorite effort. It didn't defeat the teacher, though. She always got inside next day to ring the bell for classes.

And, of course, there was outhouse-tipping. That chore, alone, could take all night, since there were no sanitary sewers or cesspools in the village.

Two young children that I know of, never had a chance to participate in such adventures. The teen-agers shooed-off little kids, so the younger ones just watched with envy and hoped they'd grow up soon.

If these two youngsters had stopped to consider, they would have known age wasn't going to make a difference. Their mother never would have let them stay out all night overturning little buildings, dragging cornshocks, or flying things.

In fact, she just about ruined Halloween every year. "Don't run through Mr. Lee's garden," she cautioned. "Don't climb on Mr. Boyd's fence."

"And use Ivory soap bars, not Lava, for window soaping. Lava scratches," she said. "And don't," she shook her finger, "soap screens instead of windows. Screens are hard to clean."

By the time they'd followed those instructions, somehow the fun had sort of gone out of the whole thing.

Trickers never dressed up in costumes, because their intent was, of course, that they weren't to be seen. They swarmed in the shadows, giggling, laughing, running and stumbling over each other — and losing each other.

There were frantic whispers of "Where's Harold? Where's Janice?" when they regrouped a safe distance away from an assaulted house.

They scared themselves with stories that grouchy Mr. Kern had filled shotgun shells with salt; if they went near his place, he would fire at them for sure. With reckless spirit, sparked from each other and the night, they dashed up to his house and soaped the windows, expecting at any moment to be felled with sodium chloride.

It was disappointing, actually, when not even a face appeared in the lighted window, as though their invasion from the darkness was as unremarkable as moths converging on a candle flame.

About 9 o'clock the younger Halloweeners headed for home, kicking through dry leaves and noticing the scent of leaf-piles burning in the yards.

It felt good to be indoors and warm cold noses. And as they washed grime from hands and knees, they wondered what preposterous things the big kids would be plotting in the next three or four hours.

A short time later, warm and drowsy in bed, the young ones heard mysterious noises and muffled voices calling in the night. They knew, then, that the older pranksters had thought up something great, but they would have to wait and see it in the morning.

People in the news

By The Associated Press
WASHINGTON (AP) — A White House spokesman says First Lady Betty Ford probably won't go to Japan with the President.

Mrs. Ford underwent surgery for breast cancer a month ago, and White House physician William Lukash had said he thought it unlikely that she would make the Far Eastern trip.

Presidential Press Secretary Ron Nessen was asked Wednesday by reporters if the trip had been totally ruled out for Mrs. Ford. He had said she "probably" would not make it.

"I'd just like to leave that word in there," he replied.

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — A district court has ordered entertainer Redd Foxx and his estranged wife to cooperate as they prepare for a divorce trial.

Foxx, star of television's "Sanford and Son" series, had told Judge Keith Hayes that his wife, Betty Jean, had kept the family's books. Her lawyers said she did not know where they are.

Hayes scheduled a hearing for Nov. 18 to review arrangements on financial statements to be used in the trial.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Charles J. Carney, D-Ohio, says Youngstown Mayor Jack Hunter was joking when he asked the congressman to sponsor a bill adding Republicans to the list of endangered species and making it a crime to turn them out of office.

"The mayor's comments were made in jest, but I can understand his feelings," Carney, who didn't agree to the suggestion, said in a statement.

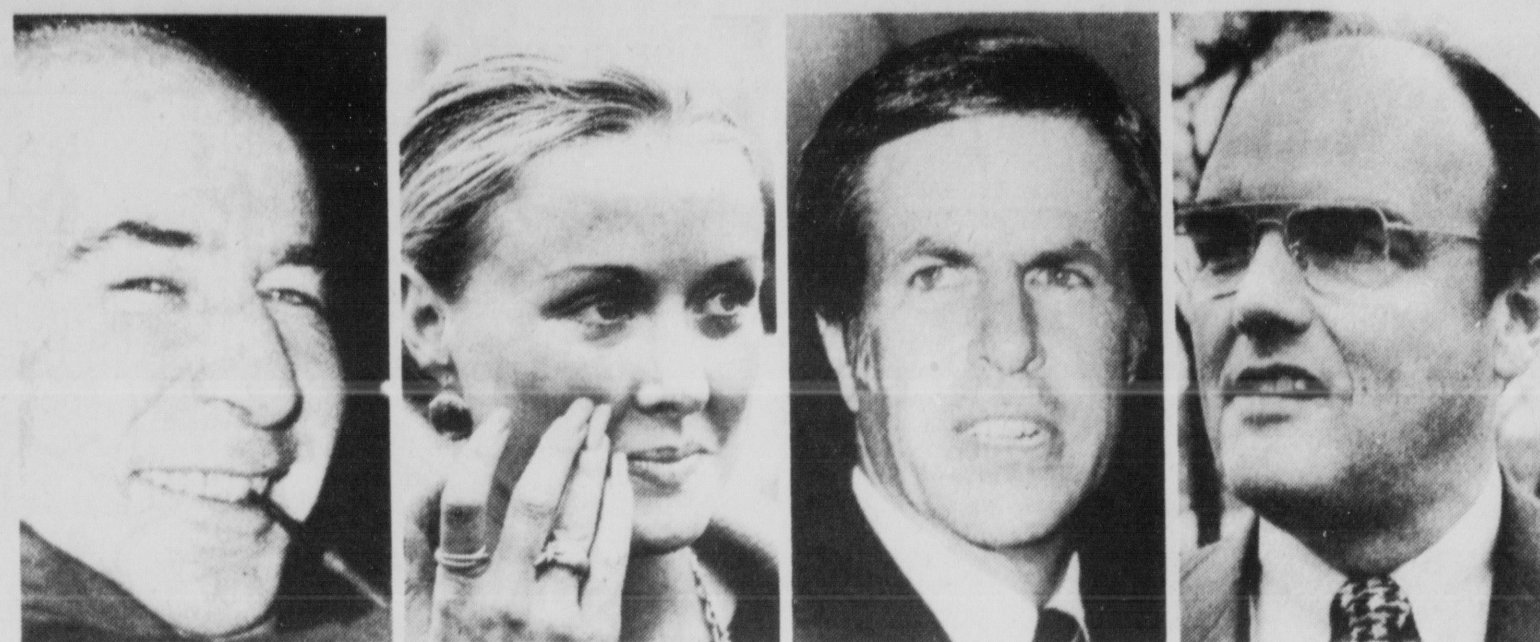

The mayor, a Republican, said he wants Carney to introduce the bill when Congress reconvenes if the November elections prove as disastrous for the GOP as predicted.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Singer Jimmy Rodgers says he is recovering successfully from head surgery following a fall suffered while filming his latest movie.

Rodgers, 41, who earlier this year accepted a $200,000 settlement from the City of Los Angeles for injuries received in a disputed 1967 incident, said Wednesday the recent fall had aggravated old head wounds.

The soft-voiced entertainer was found unconscious in his car on Dec. 1, 1967, with a fractured skull, broken arm and other injuries.

Rodgers subsequently sued the city police department, claiming he had been "worked over" by the patrolmen who found him. Police filed a counter-suit, which was later dropped.

WHAT A DIFFERENCE A year makes in the appearances of some of the principals in the Watergate conspiracy trial currently underway in Washington D.C. Remember the sagging jowls of former U.S. Attorney General John Mitchell? Mitchell, (left) has reportedly lost considerable weight since his testimony before the Senate Watergate Committee in June, 1973. But apparently gaining a few pounds from the time her husband testified last year is Maureen Dean, wife of former White House lawyer John Dean. Ex-President Nixon's top aide, H.R. Haldeman (second from right) opted for a more contemporary hair style some months ago after sporting a crewcut during his White House years. Mr. Nixon's other key adviser, John Ehrlichman has also added a few pounds and wears stylish aviator glasses since trading broadsides with Sen. Sam Ervin.

American peace efforts suffer jolt at Arab summit conference

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
Associated Press Writer

American peace efforts in the Middle East have been jolted by the Arab summit decisions at Rabat. But while this has revived talk of a new round of war as a distinct possibility, the outlook isn't necessarily all that black.

What can be done to avert the threat? After the Morocco summit, some observers are persuaded to speculate that perhaps the time has come for a put up or shut up challenge to the Soviet Union's policy of détente.

The argument is that there are only two alternatives: a new Arab-Israeli war with the concomitant disaster it could mean to the industrialized world or continued reliance on diplomacy.

Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger now has some new problems he didn't need and the going is likely to be tough. But it would seem that this was as good a time as any for Moscow to demonstrate its genuine interest in a peaceful world.

Because the Arab leaders unanimously recognized the Palestine Liberation Organization as the only representative of the Palestinians, it's doubtful whether there can be a Geneva conference on a Middle East settlement.

There had been a possibility Israel could make a deal with King Hussein of Jordan to return to his control the West Bank territory his grandfather annexed in 1948 and Hussein lost in the 1967 war.

The Arabs say Jordan can still negotiate, but things are different now. Hussein would be doing so with the PLO, the Syrians and others looking over his shoulder, none of them his friends.

Arab statements give Israel good reason to be convinced that a PLO-ruled state would be just a first step. The Arabs proclaim a minimum goal of a secular state for all of what was Palestine before the 1948 war. That would mean no more Jewish national home.

Israel cannot tolerate the prospect of the West Bank in the hands of an entity pledged to her destruction, so even moderate voices speculate gloomily on a new round of war.

The speculation is quickened by the decision of the Arab oil rulers to lavish $2.5 billion on Egypt, Syria, Jordan and the PLO. The money will go to a war economy chest and the Arabs are likely to be seized with the idea that they cannot lose. To avert such a development, the Israelis might ponder a preventive war.

There are some indications, however, that the Arab rulers are being cautious. They seem at pains to note that the door is still open to the Kissinger step-by-step approach to some sort of settlement.

To sell Israel on any negotiations with the Arabs it would be necessary to persuade her she won't be asked to negotiate away her existence as a Jewish state. Only the two super-powers together could provide the guarantees.

Can the Soviet Union, in view of all this, now be tested? Is détente important enough to the Kremlin to persuade it to restrain its Arab clients and demonstrate its interest in a peaceful world by cooperating in a search for a way out of a highly perilous situation?

Over 300 doctors attend conference

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — More than 300 doctors gathered here for a two-day conference, the first of its kind, on Reye's Syndrome, a mysterious and lethal childhood disease.

Pediatricians, neurologists, epidemiologists and pathologists from the United States, Canada and Puerto Rico attended the conference sponsored by the Children's Hospital Research Foundation.

The mechanism, cause and treatment of Reye's Syndrome are still unknown. Dr. Charles B. Reiner, a pathologist at Children's Hospital, said during a news conference held by a panel of the sponsoring physicians.

Reye's Syndrome is an uncontrollable, relatively rare disease which attacks children and teenagers who have just suffered certain viral infections, such as chicken pox or influenza, said Dr. Lawrence Corey of the Center for Disease Control in Atlanta, Ga.

A small outbreak of the syndrome last year, after a nationwide epidemic of influenza, led to increased public and physicians' awareness of the little-known disease, Corey said.

The Center for Disease Control received reports of 428 suspect cases for the winter season, he said. The syndrome is fatal in about 50 per cent of the cases.

The syndrome is thought to be a metabolic disturbance affecting the liver which is triggered somehow by the viral infection, the doctors explained. The result is an abnormally high level of ammonia in the blood which is toxic to the brain and the central nervous system. However, there is no proven explanation of the disease.

A child with Reye's Syndrome is overcome with uncontrollable nausea and vomiting, drowsiness, convulsions, delirium and in the final stage, coma, Corey said.

"Scrupulous supportive care is most important" in the treatment of the syndrome, said Dr. Morey W. Haymond, professor of pediatrics at Washington University in St. Louis.

"As of the moment, there is no universally accepted modality of therapy," Corey said.

The concluding session of the conference was a presentation of the various methods used in different hospitals around the U.S. Three methods of curative therapy now being experimented with are exchange blood transfusions, dialysis and glucose-insulin therapy, the doctor said.

Student teacher in Amboy

AMBOY — Miss Susan Wining, Lombard, began duties as a student teacher in Amboy High School on Oct. 21. She will be spending the next nine weeks here in the social studies department of the school under the direction of Gary Carlson.

She is a graduate of Montini High School, Lombard, and is a senior at Illinois State University, Bloomington, where she is majoring in history and minoring in political science.

Miss Wining is the first of several student teachers who will be spending a nine-week period at Amboy High School this year. Each student teacher will be in the classroom observing teaching methods and then will have the opportunity to actually teach various classes under the supervision and direction of the classroom teacher.

Walker aide to seek alderman post

CHICAGO (AP) — An aide to Gov. Daniel Walker says he will run for alderman in the 5th Ward on Chicago's South Side.

Squire Lance, 41, announced his candidacy Wednesday for the seat being vacated by Alderman Leon Despres. Despres has served in the City Council for nearly 20 years.

"I am my own man. I am not for sale. I am not Walker's man in the race, nor will I be Mayor Daley's man in the race," Lance said at a news conference.

His announcement came one day after the regular Democratic organization said it would run a black candidate for the seat. Blacks make up approximately 60 per cent of the ward's population. Despres is white.

Lance, who is black, said he would seek support from the regular Democratic organization and the Independent Voters of Illinois.

Bangladesh faces crucial period in hunger fight

WASHINGTON (AP) — Bangladesh faces a crucial three to four weeks in its fight to obtain sufficient grains and stave off famine, American and Bangladesh diplomats here say.

Because of severe floods last summer, there are no stocks of rice and wheat in densely populated villages and Bengali flood victims are dying of hunger in ever-increasing numbers.

The late rice crop may reach record proportions, but it is not due to be harvested until December, the sources said. The challenge is to mobilize enough food in the meantime to feed the Bangladesh people.

U.S. officials said Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger did not make any dramatic announcements on food in his talks in Dacca Tuesday. Prime Minister Mujibur Rahman was disappointed last month that the United States was unable to give more positive assurances of food for this year.

Bangladesh hoped for 700,000 tons of food grains from the United States. The United States has authorized 100,000 tons of wheat and 50,000 tons of rice so far in the fiscal year that began July 1. Another 100,000 tons is expected to be approved before the end of this year, but delivery probably will not be made until early 1975.

The first 50,000 tons of American wheat under the new allocation will leave Baltimore about Nov. 3 and will arrive in Chittagong in December.

Meantime, 11,700 tons of rice bought by the United Nations from China for delivery to Indonesia has been diverted to Bangladesh and reached port on Oct. 27.

Another 50,000 tons of grain from Australia is expected to arrive in late November.

Candidates limiting contributions

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two years after the richest, most secretive political campaign in history, candidates are beginning to voluntarily limit the contributions they will accept and throwing their record books wide open.

In 1972 a group of men scurried about the country gathering huge secret donations for Richard M. Nixon's re-election campaign.

In 1974 nearly 20 senators, representatives and a few challengers have told their campaign treasurers to refuse funds from special interest groups or personal contributions beyond specified limits, some as low as $100.

A few are listing every contribution they receive, although federal law requires that only contributions of $100 or more be itemized when contribution totals are reported.

So, for those who care to look, the $2 contribution of Rose Narberg, a Honolulu teacher, is recorded in the campaign records of Sen. Charles McC. Mathias, R-Md., along with thousands of other contributions.

In addition to opening up his records, Mathias is limiting contributions from individuals to $100 or less. However, he accepted contributions of $4,500 from the seafarers union and $5,000 from the marine engineers union. He received a total of $228,513 in campaign contributions as of mid-October.

Campaign officials and other political observers agree that the voluntary limits and open records are a direct result of Watergate.

"I'm certain that everyone knew this was a concern of the public," said Gordon Hawk, Rep. Gilbert Gude's administrative assistant.

Gude, a Maryland Republican, has refused to accept any contributions from beyond the borders of his suburban Montgomery County district or any of more than $100.

Limiting contributions can be a risky business for a non-cumulative, who generally lacks the public recognition and financial resources that go with holding office.

But Ramsey Clark, the Democrat challenging New York's Republican Sen. Jacob K. Javits, decided to limit his contributions to $100 and is proving the exception to Watergate's rule.

A challenger running against a well-financed incumbent — Javits' current campaign has received more than $20,000 from the Rockefeller family alone — can make political capital by stressing the self-imposed limits, and that is what Clark has done. Javits has raised nearly $700,000 and previous New York campaigns have cost more than $1 million.

"The special interest group contributions have turned so many people off on the election process following Watergate," said Edward Murnane, campaign manager for Rep. Philip M. Crane, R-Ill. "It is a form of influence peddling the American people have indicated they will not tolerate."

Crane is refusing to accept contributions from special interest groups, except official Republican organizations.

Others who are placing voluntary restrictions on campaign receipts are Reps. Pierre S. Du Pont, R-Del.; Jack F. Kemp, R-N.Y.; Bill Archer, R-Tex.; Charles Thone, R-Neb.; Edward G. Biester, R-Pa., and El-ford A. Cederberg, R-Mich.

The Center for Public Financing of Elections, in a recent study, said the following senators, in addition to Mathias, had placed limits on the size of contributions they would accept:

Sens. Henry Bellmon, R-Okla.; Frank Church, D-Idaho; Peter V. Dominick, R-Colo.; Warren Magnuson, D-Wash.; Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis.; Richard Schweiker, R-Pa., and Adlai Stevenson III, D-Ill.

Sens. Birch Bayh, D-Ind.; Alan Cranston, D-Calif.; Mike Gravel, D-Alaska; Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn., and Bob Packwood, R-Ore., are limiting the amount of cash they will accept.

Sens. Church, Dominick, Javits, Russell B. Long, D-La., Magnuson, Mathias, Nelson and Milton R. Young, R-N.D., are refusing to accept any cash.

Amboy High attendance policy bared

AMBOY—An attendance policy at Amboy High School for the 1974-75 year has been announced by the school administrators.

In order that all students and parents are aware of the policy, it is being published.

Whenever a teacher is ill an announcement will be made over the school public address system. An attempt will be made to have a substitute take over the class. If it is not possible, students will be sent to the study hall or to the library. Those failing to report will be given an unexcused absence, one hour detention and the parents will be notified, if possible. For the second infraction of the rule the student will be suspended from school.

Students who must leave school for some reason must obtain a permit slip from Miss Catherine Douvier in the library. If Miss Douvier is not there the student is to report to the office. Those who do not follow these directions are subject to an unexcused absence and detention the first time and suspension after that.

The same rule will apply to students who skip a scheduled class or study hall.

Halloween every week for this bachelor ghost hunter

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN

Associated Press Writer
CHICAGO (AP) — Halloween comes nearly every week for a 26-year-old bachelor who has made his hobby of ghost hunting pay off.

Richard Crowe, a historical researcher for the City of Chicago, collects information on strange happenings and investigates them. In his spare time he conducts ghost tours and has built up a mailing file of 2,000 persons in a four-state area who are interested in supernatural lore.

"Halloween doesn't especially interest me — if any ghosts are around they'll have to wait for me," he says. "My next tour will be Saturday, All Souls Day."

Crowe says he and 60 followers, paying $1 each, will gather at dusk Saturday atop Starved Rock, a 100-foot high landmark overlooking the Illinois River in Starved Rock State Park near Ottawa.

"It was there in 1704 that the Potawatomi and Kickapoo Indians nearly wiped out the Illinois Tribe in a bloody massacre. Over the years there have been many reports from persons in the area of hearing screams and warwhoops coming from the top of Starved Rock. This happens usually at dusk. We hope the phenomena occurs while we are holding our vigil."

Crowe has several standard ghost tours around the Chicago area. Last week he conducted 90 persons at $7 per head on a five-hour trip to two cemeteries and two churches surrounded by supernatural auras.

"At Holy Scepter Cemetery in the suburb of Worth we visited the grave of Mary Alice Quinn, said to have had miraculous powers. She died at age 14 in 1935. There is a strong scent of flowers over her grave even in the dead of winter. I haven't experienced many so-called phenomena, but I have smelled the flowers."

At Bachelor's Grove Cemetery near the suburb of Midlothian, Crowe said, a blue ghostly light from the creek area floats over the graves. "And there are numerous reports of a full-sized farmhouse of 1890 vintage being seen at the side of the dirt road leading to the cemetery by some people and not by others — or it might be spotted in some other nearby location, and then disappear again. Just keep in mind there are a lot of unexplained things going on in this world."

The tour takes in St. Rita's Church on the South Side where Crowe says six phantom monks appeared in 1960 and the organ played by itself. The organ can still be heard at times with no one at the keyboard, he said.

At Holy Family Church on the South Side, he said there have been reports of seven shadowy figures being sighted below the organ loft at various times.

Aaron challenges Sadahara Oh

TOKYO (AP)—With the world heavyweight boxing crown decided, attention turns Saturday to another superstar slugfest, to decide whether American Hank Aaron or Japan's Sadahara Oh is the world's best home run hitter.

Aaron arrives in Tokyo today, less than 24 hours before his scheduled home run contest with Oh. The match precedes an exhibition game between the New York Mets and a Japanese professional baseball all-star team.

The first order of business is for the two fence-busters to decide the rules for the contest and such matters as who will pitch the balls they will be trying to blast over Korakuen Stadium's 300-foot right and left field fences.

Oh prefers to have each slugger take a certain number of swings. The alternative would be to count home runs within a definite time period.

Win or lose, Aaron is to receive $50,000 from the CBS television network, which will televise the contest in the United States at 1 p.m. CST Saturday. Oh is to receive $20,000 from CBS.

Aside from the one-time contest, the 40-year-old Aaron currently reigns as the world's home run king on the basis of 733 blasts in his career. On April 8 he passed the old record of 714 set by Babe Ruth.

But the 34-year-old Oh, figuring he has at least six more seasons in him, is a good bet to break that record. The left-handed Chinese-Japanese first baseman for the Yomiuri Giants is only 99 homers behind Aaron, with 634, and if he keeps up his present pace will have 780 by the end of the 1977 season.

Raising his right leg high in a manner reminiscent of Mel Ott and then lashing out with wrists made strong by practice with bamboo swords, Oh won Japan's Central League home run championship for the 13th straight year this season with 49. Since 1963, he has fallen below 40 home runs a year only once, when he hit 39 in 1971.

Aaron, at 6 feet and 195 pounds, has the advantage in size. Oh stands 5-10 and weighs 180, but Korakuen Stadium has relatively short fences, 390 feet from home plate in straight-away center field.

One similarity is that both hitters rely heavily on their wrists. But Oh's unorthodox style always arouses comment. Even he says, "I look like a one-legged swinging scarecrow."

The Broad Street Bullies manhandle the Rangers 5-1

By The Associated Press
The Broad Street Bullies gave the New York Rangers a licking Thursday night with Bobby Clark, one of their biggest bullies, doing a lot of the damage.

"They were great with their forechecking," said New York Coach Emile Francis after losing a 5-1 National Hockey League decision to the Philadelphia Flyers. "They were on top of us before we knew it."

Triggered by Clark, the Flyers scored two lightning goals at the start of the second period to turn the game into a rout.

Ross Lonsberry and Bill Clement scored two goals apiece for Philadelphia. Clement opened the scoring at 6:41 of the first period. His second goal came at the end of the second period when his shot deflected off the skates of New York goalie Ed Giacomin.

Both of Lonsberry's goals came in the second period — first a tip-in of a centering pass from Rick MacLeish and, later, a power-play goal.

Reggie Leach also got a second-period goal to give Philadelphia a 5-0 advantage going into the final period.

Bobby Rousseau put the Rangers on the scoreboard in the third period with a power-play goal, foiling Bernie Parent's shutout bid.

In the other NHL games, the Montreal Canadiens whipped the Washington Capitals 3-0 and the Los Angeles Kings and St. Louis Blues played to a 1-1 tie. In the World Hockey Association, the Cleveland Crusaders downed the Michigan Stags 4-2; the New England Whalers walloped the Indianapolis Racers 6-1 and San Diego trimmed Chicago 4-3.

Murray Wilson scored on a breakaway at 7:26 of the second period to snap a scoreless game lead and Montreal to beat Washington.

The shutout defeat was the fourth suffered by the expansion Capitals in their first 10 NHL games. Montreal goaltender Ken Dryden stopped 19 shots in gaining his first shutout this year.

Serge Savard added the second Montreal goal at 4:17 of the third period. Guy Lafleur got the third Canadiens' goal at 18:44 of the third period.

Garry Unger's goal with 7:14 left in the game gave St. Louis its tie with Los Angeles. The Kings' goal was scored by Judah Widing in the first period.

Two first-period goals by Tom Webster pushed him past 100 for his professional hockey career and propelled New England over Indianapolis.

Larry Pleau also scored twice for the Whalers, now 5-1 atop the WHA East Division standings.

Two goals each by Skip Krake and Gerry Pinder carried Cleveland over Michigan.

Krake and Pinder each connected once in the second period to give the Crusaders a 2-1 lead. After Pinder knocked in his own rebound at 6:16 of the final period to break a 2-2 tie, Krake scored into an open net to put the game out of reach with one second left.

The victory was the second along with a tie in five starts for Cleveland, playing for the first time in eight games because of ice failures in its home area.

Andre Lacroix scored two goals to lead San Diego over Chicago.

Cardinals go after Cowboys

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer
The St. Louis Cardinals are playing Cowboys and Indians this year ... and they're the guys who always win.

After shooting down the Washington Redskins for the second time this season last week, the high-riding Cardinals hope to accomplish the same thing against the Dallas Cowboys this Sunday.

The Cardinals, undefeated in seven National Football League games, can just about tie a rope on a divisional championship with a victory at Texas Stadium.

"If they win, that's it as far as the National Conference Eastern title is concerned," said Dallas Coach Tom Landry. Ironically, the Cardinals are 5½-point underdogs despite their perfect record, which dramatically overshadows the Cowboys' 3-4 mark in the East.

The Buffalo Bills and New England Patriots play an important game Sunday, too. The Bills and Patriots, locked in a tie for first place with 6-1 records in the American Conference's East Division, meet for the second time in three weeks. The Bills won their first meeting at Buffalo 30-28.

In the other National Football League games Sunday, the Oakland Raiders play the Denver Broncos; the Philadelphia Eagles meet the Pittsburgh Steelers; the Minnesota Vikings take on the Chicago Bears; Washington plays the Green Bay Packers; the Detroit Lions host the New Orleans Saints; the Cincinnati Bengals visit the Baltimore Colts; the Miami Dolphins entertain the Atlanta Falcons; the New York Giants travel to Kansas City for a meeting with the Chiefs; the San Diego Chargers play at home against the Cleveland Browns and the Houston Oilers are in New York for a game with the Jets.

In the weekly Monday night game, the Los Angeles Rams play the San Francisco 49ers.

The Cardinals, off to their best start in history, will bank on Jim Hart's arm and Jim Bakken's toe — two weapons that have propelled them to the front of the NFL class.

While the Cardinals have Hart, the No. 1 passer in the NFL, the Cowboys can boast the No. 1 pass-catcher in the NFL — Drew Pearson. Pearson has 38 receptions for 644 yards so far this year.

The showdown battle between Buffalo and New England matches a pair of high-powered teams who can kill you by land or air. O.J. Simpson, the record-breaking runner, leads the Buffalo offense while New England depends on Jim Plunkett, the AFC's No. 3 passer.

Oakland can just about wipe out Denver in the AFC West with a victory over the Broncos. The Raiders, with a 6-1, hold a 2½-game lead over Denver, 3-3-1.

Pittsburgh, 5-1-1, leading the AFC Central race by 1½ games, can improve their status for a playoff berth by beating Philadelphia. The Eagles, 4-3 in the East, need this one badly to stay within striking distance of the playoffs.

Minnesota, 5-2, leader in the AFC Central by two games, hope to stop a two-game losing streak. Chicago hopes to continue it to three games, something that hasn't happened to the Vikings since 1968.

Washington, 4-3, meets Green Bay, 3-4, in a battle of second-place teams. The Redskins are tied with Philadelphia for second in the NFC East and the Packers are locked in a tie with Detroit and Chicago in the NFC Central race.

New Orleans and Detroit each hope to reach the .500 mark. The Saints are guided by John North, an assistant coach with the Lions for eight seasons before going to New Orleans.

Cincinnati gave up the ball on fumbles five times while losing last week's 34-21 decision to Houston and can't afford to repeat that lackluster performance against Baltimore.

Miami, 5-2 in the AFC East, faces a significant game, since, unless there is a tie, one of the teams ahead of the Dolphins will win Sunday in the Buffalo-New England contest.

Newly-acquired Craig Morton will start for the Giants, who have lost four straight games. Cleveland broke a four-game losing streak last week with an upset victory over Denver.

Dukes close-out with Rock Falls

The Dixon Dukes will seek their first non-conference victory of the season when the Purple and White take on the Rock Falls Rockets at Hinder Memorial Field in Rock Falls at 8 p.m. tonight. The sophomore game begins the night at 6.

It will be the final contest of the campaign for the 2-6 Dukes, who need a win tonight to better last season's 2-6-1 record. Rock Falls is 3-5, with victories over Hall and Princeton in the Southwest Division of the NCIC plus a win over Newman in a non-conference tilt.

Offensively, the Rockets list the line, beginning at left end as follows: 5'11"-162 senior Mike McCormick, 6'4"-215 junior Pat McDonnell, 5'8"-160 senior Jerry Poci, 5'9"-180 senior Dan Fiorini, 5'9"-180 senior Jeff Wolfe, 5'9"-180 senior Rick Beattie and 6'2"-170 junior Rick Brushaber.

The quarterback will be 5'10"-140 senior Scott Houston, with 6'0"-160 junior Jeff Murray and 5'7"-160 Tom Licocci at halfbacks, plus 6'1"-180 Dan Garman at fullback. Garman has tallied five touchdowns and added a pair of two-point conversions to lead the Rockets in scoring with 34 points.

Murray has added 18 points on a trio of touchdowns, while Licocci has scored one six-pointer and kicked three conversions. Houston, Brushaber and McCormick have tallied once each.

Rock Falls plans to run a 6-2-2-1 defense with Jeff Wescott (5'8"-170 junior) and 6'0"-170 junior Ed Moller at ends, 5'11"-195 senior Chris Bower and 5'7"-170 senior Tim Cairns at tackles, along with 6'2"-200 senior Tom Cushman plus 5'10"-165 junior Jim Jones at guards.

Licocci and Kevin Rubright (6'0"-165 senior) man the line-backer slots, backed up by McCormick and 6'0"-170 senior Bob Harms at halfbacks and 5'10"-150 senior Tom McNitt at safety.

Storm wins 14-0

SHREVEPORT, La. (AP) — Pete Beathard hurled two touchdowns passes Thursday night to lead Portland to a 14-0 World Football League victory over the Shreveport Steamers and force an agonizing reappraisal of an old college relationship.

Steamer offensive guard Clyde Williams was a teammate of Beathard's at the University of Southern California 12 years ago.

"He was always a good short passer," Williams said of his old college chum. "But tonight he threw some long ones, and he scrambled real well. He was a lot better than I anticipated."

Beathard's touchdown tosses in the nationally-televised contest both went to diminutive running back Rufus "Road Runner" Ferguson, a second-year man out of Wisconsin.

The first one was a six-yard toss in the first quarter. That capped an 11-play, 73-yard drive. Beathard hummed five completions in six attempts for 51 yards in that march, and finished the night with 13 completions of 22 attempts for 199 yards.

One of those completions was a 33-yard second quarter toss to Ferguson for a touchdown.

That came on a third-and-eight situation. Beathard was rushed hard by the Steamer defense, scrambled out of the pocket, spotted Ferguson on the two and zinged the ball to him. The 5-foot-6 running back danced across for the score.

The touchdown came with just over a minute left in the first half and marked the last real offensive spark of the night.

Shreveport did get to the Portland seven before time ran out in the first half, but that was on a wild scramble by quarterback David Mays, and it was the Steamer's only penetration of the night.

"It was one of our better games," said Storm Coach Dick Coury. "It was a total defensive effort."

Steamer Coach Marshall Taylor agreed. "I think we only had 25 offensive plays in the second half and one first down," he said.

"We got behind and tried to come back too quickly. We came up with so many third-and-longs we couldn't seem to get our offense moving."

Mays started in place of D.C. Nobles, who injured a shoulder a week ago. Nobles did play in the third quarter, to no avail.

The victory moved Portland into second place in the Western Division of the World Football League and dropped Shreveport to the bottom of the WFL standings. Both teams entered the game with 6-10-1 records.

Portland now has a clear shot at a berth in the eight-team playoffs.

Walt Frazier is sidelined for five to seven days

By BOB GREENE
AP Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Walt Frazier, the heart of the New York Knicks' offense and the soul of its defense, scored the first two points at Madison Square Garden Thursday night.

Less than a minute later, the veteran guard lay sprawled on the court, his hands covering his face, his legs kicking out in agony.

"I thought I was blind. I couldn't open my eye," Frazier said later before being taken to a hospital.

The captain of the Knicks was scrambling for a loose ball under the Atlanta Hawks basket just 45 seconds into the game.

"Someone caught me in the eye," he said. "It was very painful. It was frightening."

A television replay showed Hawks' rookie sensation John Drew had accidentally jabbed his finger into Frazier's left eye. A spokesman for the National Basketball Association team said "Clyde," as Frazier likes to call himself, suffered a conjunctival tear, a cut on the white of the eyeball.

He will be examined again Friday and is expected to be out from five to seven days.

With Frazier, the team's leading scorer in each of the last four seasons, out of action, the burden fell on the Knicks' other veteran guard, Earl Monroe.

Monroe pumped in 35 points, high for New York this season, as the Knicks edged Atlanta 93-90.

In other NBA games Thursday, Houston nipped Washington 95-92 and Cleveland defeated Detroit 118-101. There were no American Basketball Association games scheduled.

With 15,413 partisan fans screaming their pleasure, Monroe repeatedly came downcourt, backed his way in closer to the basket, spinning from side to side, then ripping the nets with his patented turnaround jump shots.

Monroe was matched for the first half almost basket for basket by the 20-year-old Drew, who dropped out of Gardner-Webb College in Boiling Springs, N.C., after two years and joined the NBA as a hardship case.

Drew, popping his soft jumper from 15 feet away, finished with 27 points, 15 coming in the first half.

With Atlanta ahead 86-84 with 2:53 remaining in the game, Henry Bibby, Bill Bradley and Phil Jackson scored to give New York the lead, 90-86. After Lou Hudson pulled the Hawks back to within two, Monroe's spinning jumper from the foul line sealed the New York victory.

Austin Carr's 31 points sparked the Cleveland Cavaliers to their victory over Detroit. The Pistons led at the half, but Carr and Bingo Smith led a third-period spurt that sent the Cavaliers on top to stay.

Detroit center Bob Lanier scored 31 points in the first half, but could tally only 10 more in the final two periods against substitute Jim Chones.

Dave Wohl's two free throws with three seconds remaining in the game blunted a frantic fourth quarter rally by Washington as the Bullets lost their first game of the season.

Wohl finished with 29 points, a career high, to pace Houston, while Kevin Porter scored 17 for Washington.

Utah's speedy little Steve Odom ended his career with an amazing 20.9 yards per play in all-purpose running. More than half his 4,755 yards came in kickoffs, where his career 2,582 is 703 more than any major collegian in history (he finished his career in 1973, but broke the career kickoff mark his junior year). Odom also was a gifted receiver, averaging 36.4 yards for his 19 career TD catches.

Devine has indicated he will not make a decision on Sunday's starting quarterback until later in the week. John Hadl, acquired from the Rams last week, is expected to be available for the first time.

Note-Worthy: Although held to 53 yards in 18 carries by the Lions, John Brockington widened his lead as the Packers' No. 1 receiver. Brockington now has 18 catches for 153 yards, two more than runners-up Rich McGeorge and Jon Stagers. McGeorge has already matched his 1973 season reception total. His two catches for 35 yards against the Lions gave him 16 for 199 yards. In '73, he caught 16 for 260 yards.

Quick Quotes — Jack Concannon: "I missed one or two passes early in the game, but I didn't feel rusty. I missed Jon Stagers once, but that was a tough pass to throw. I later hit him with the same pass. He made a helluva catch on it. 'I didn't feel stale or rusty because I hadn't started since '71, but there was a lot of pressure from the Lions in the first quarter. They were blitzing and everything."

Ted Hendricks: "We worked the block of the field goal like we always do. I get some help from Mike McCoy and Clarence Williams. We lined up tight and tried to get some penetration — tried to come in with my hands up. I got a hand on the ball but I didn't think it was enough. I thought it was going to make it."

Barty Smith (who made his first appearance as a Packer, having been sidelined by knee surgery performed in June): "It was great. I never even thought about getting hit for the first time — I never think about getting hit. I felt good from the start. The knee held up well — it felt great."

The Redskins, 23-20 victims Sunday of the slightly incredible St. Louis Cardinals, will be making their first Green Bay visit since 1959. The Packers won their '59 meeting, 21-0, launching a four-game victory streak that produced a 7-5 overall record and the team's first winning season in 12 years.

The Packers and Redskins have met three other times in the 15-year interim, all of them taking place in the nation's capital. The Packers triumphed 27-7 in 1968, then lost twice to the Redskins in 1972.

Packers maintain playoff hopes

GREEN BAY — The Packers have good reason to ponder what might have been, following two consecutive losses by a total of three points within a week's time. Particularly in view of what has befallen the NFC Central Division — leading Minnesota Vikings, who also have lost two in a row, yet remain two games in front of the Packers, Lions and Bears.

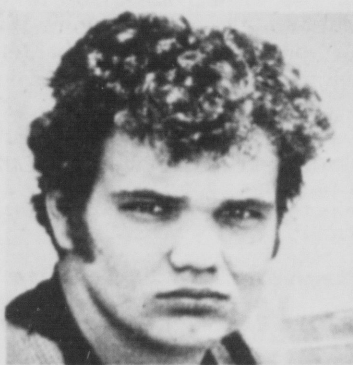

But this bittersweet exercise is not without its positive side for the green and gold, shaded 19-17 by the Lions in the final 9 seconds Sunday after yielding a grudging 10-9 decision to the Bears six days earlier on national television. Despite the current 3-4 record and the inevitable psychic impact of those successive frustrations, the Sabbath's related events left substantial hope and incentive as the Packers reached stock-taking time, the midpoint of the 1974 season.

Mathematically, eventual parity with the Vikings in the Central Division race is still a possibility with seven games remaining to play, including a Packer rematch with the Purple Gang in Minnesota, November 17. Even more heartening is the "wild card" situation, which finds the Packers trailing only two of nine National Football Conference rivals in this competition, the Washington Redskins and Philadelphia Eagles, both 4-3 at the moment.

Significant here is the fact that Coach Dan Devine's athletes hold their fate in their own hands, since they will meet both Washington and Philadelphia during the second half of the season. In fact, the Packers will come to grips with George Allen's Redskins next Sunday when they return to Lambeau Field in hopes of scoring their first victory of the season on Green Bay soil, following losses to Minnesota (32-17) and Buffalo (27-7).

They get a hand-to-hand shot at the Eagles in Philadelphia, December 1, a game that will launch a season-ending, three-game road trip. The Packers are even with four other wild card hopefuls at this point and ahead of three others. Dallas, Chicago, Detroit and New Orleans share their 3-4 status, while Atlanta and San Francisco are 2-5 and the New York Giants 1-6.

Traumatic as it was, Sunday's last minute loss was not without its positive developments, notable among them a sterling performance by Quarterback Jack Concannon in his first regular season start as a Packer. In the process of a 17-for-30 passing day, good for 237 yards, the former Chicago

CHESTER MARCOL

Bear and Dallas Cowboy engineered one of the team's longest scoring drives of the season, a 70-yard march in the second quarter.

The only longer push during the first half of the season was an 86-yard drive Jerry Tagge mounted for the Packers' lone touchdown in a 27-7 loss to Buffalo, October 6. It likewise produced another "big play" contribution by monolithic Ted Hendricks, who appeared to have saved the day with a block of a 27-yard field goal attempt by Errol Mann with 1:53 remaining in the game.

It was the fifth time the towering ex-Colt has blocked a kick this season. Hendricks, who also has four interceptions and a fumble recovery to his credit, has blunted two field goal attempts, two punts and an extra point try. Chester Marcol tied the Packers' career field goal record of 66, set by Paul Hornung from 1957 through 1966, with a 49-yard success in the third quarter which staked Green Bay to a temporary 10-9 lead. Marcol, 12-for-17, for the season, now is 66-for-100 over 35 games as a pro. Rookie punter Randy Walker, lifting his season average to an even 38 yards in the process, also launched his longest punt of the season, a 58-yard effort.

Rozelle rules out merger

NEW YORK (AP) — Forget about any possible consolidation between the 55-year-old National Football League and the infant World Football League ... as long as Pete Rozelle is NFL commissioner.

Asked about the possibility of such an amalgamation Thursday, Rozelle said emphatically, "There will be no complete or partial merger with any World Football League teams. The league never has considered it. The World Football League will have to make it or not make it on its own, without any help from us."

"We have our own expansion plans and there would just be nothing in it for us to take in two of their teams. If we did, there could be all sorts of problems, such as teams in our league holding rights to some players on those teams."

"For our 29th and 30th teams, we are going to stock them with NFL players, just as we are going to stock our 27th and 28th teams with NFL players."

In fact, no NFL teams will be stocked with any more WFL players for the remainder of this season. The NFL owners made that decision Thursday, at the conclusion of their two-day meetings.

In passing such a resolution, the owners broadened a long-standing rule that had been in effect against the signing of Canadian Football League and minor league players.

Thus, when the first WFL regular season ends on Nov. 13 and the CFL regular season concludes on Nov. 3, none of their players would be eligible to be signed by NFL teams, even if they became free agents at those times.

Meanwhile, Rozelle said no decision had been reached on awarding of the Seattle franchise. The commissioner said three groups — two from Seattle — were bidding for the franchise, which is scheduled to begin play in 1976, along with Tampa. The commissioner said the decision probably would be made within the next month.

The Tampa franchise was awarded Wednesday to Tom McCloskey, a Philadelphia builder and real estate developer.

There remained the possibility that two more franchises would be added for 1976, increasing league membership to 30 in six five-team divisions. Among the cities considered leading contenders are Phoenix, Birmingham, Ala., Memphis and Honolulu. Ironically, the last three currently have WFL teams.

The owners also voted to play the 1976 Pro Bowl Game, matching all-stars from the American and National Conferences, in the Superdome in Louisiana on Monday night, Jan. 26. This season's Pro Bowl Game, the first under the lights, is scheduled for Jan. 20, 1975, in Miami's Orange Bowl.

Rozelle said the possibility of extending the 14-game schedule next season was turned down.

Buckeyes next feast is Illinois

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

Look who's coming to dinner at Columbus ... Illinois.

The crippled Illini would seem to be easy pickings Saturday for Ohio State, the nation's No. 1 team. The Buckeyes have been feasting on everyone else this year.

While the undefeated Buckeyes have the pleasure of Illinois' company, Big Ten Conference colleague Michigan, the other bully in that league, will be dining out at Indiana.

Michigan, No. 3 in the country and right up there with the voracious Buckeyes in the Big Ten race, is a prohibitive favorite to beat the Hoosiers.

Both the Illinois and Indiana coaches realize what kind of odds they face with those two bone-busters as opponents.

"We have nothing to lose but everything to gain," said Illinois Coach Bob Blackman. "And it doesn't change the fact that Ohio State is one of the great college teams of all time."

In preparation for his overwhelming task, Indiana Coach Lee Corso said: "Michigan is a team that has everything, but we'll really be supercharged — really go after them."

But both Ohio State and Michigan are undefeated in seven games and seem intent on keeping it that way until their much-heralded meeting in the last game of the regular season.

In the other games involving Top Ten teams Saturday, it's No. 2 Oklahoma at Iowa State; No. 4 Alabama hosting No. 17 Mississippi State; No. 5 Auburn at No. 11 Florida; California visiting No. 6 Southern California; seventh-ranked Notre Dame vs. Navy in Philadelphia; Arkansas at No. 8 Texas A&M; No. 9 Nebraska at Colorado and 10th-ranked Penn State hosting No. 15 Maryland.

Among the rest of the ranked teams, No. 12 Texas entertains SMU; No. 13 Texas Tech visits Rice; No. 16 Miami plays Western Michigan; 18th-rated UCLA plays at Washington; No. 19 Temple visits Cincinnati and San Diego State, No. 20, takes on North Texas State.

Illinois, which has enough problems just facing Ohio State, will have to also overcome a lot of injuries. Illinois, battered on defense, has only two healthy tackles to face awesome Archie Griffin & Co.

Ohio State's fabulous running back is seeking to extend his NCAA record of 17 straight 100-yard games. Ohio State Coach Woody Hayes will try to get his 200th career victory, 167 with Ohio State. A crowd of 87,000 is expected to be on hand for the game.

The Big Two from the Big Ten aren't the only football bullies favored to kick their opponents Saturday.

When mortgage money is hard to get...who gets hurt?

Home seekers feel it first—and worst. Today, if they can find a mortgage loan at all they are forced to pay the highest interest rates in history.

Selling your home? No matter how much your home would seem to be worth, it's not worth much if nobody can get a mortgage to buy it.

It hits low and moderate income families. They either end up paying higher rents or give up the dream of a home of their own.

Thousands of workers feel the squeeze, too. With a sharp decline in new housing production, some 500,000 craftsmen are out of jobs.

what can be done?
You can help. Ask for state legislators to respond to your concern. Write to your Congressman. Senators. And the President himself.

Home builders are trying to help, too. We're urging Congress and the Administration to ease the situation. To adopt policies that would meet the current housing money crisis. And to fight inflation—but certainly not by encouraging higher interest rates!

The National Association of Home Builders, with which this Association is affiliated, is recommending a program to provide for an adequate supply of mortgage money at reasonable rates. Send for a free copy of our proposals.

Together let's try to restore economic policies which make it easier for people to buy, sell, rent and build homes.

The Doctor Says:

By LAWRENCE LAMB, M.D.
DEAR DR. LAMB—I recently had an electrocardiogram (ECG) taken in my doctor's office. The tracings indicated "definitely abnormal curve," no medication was prescribed, and I was not advised as to the condition. I am a woman 57 years old and would appreciate your opinion and what precautions should be taken.

DEAR READER— Electrocardiographic interpretations are not the same thing as a diagnosis of a disease. They are used, along with all the other tests, the physical examination and your history to help the doctor make a diagnosis.

Such a nonspecific interpretation doesn't mean much. It only means that your tracing is not like the majority of known healthy people, when the test is taken under standard conditions.

Minor changes can occur from anxiety, from having eaten something before the test, or even from how the electrodes are placed on the chest.

Since your doctor did not say anything about your heart, I would presume he thought the changes were minor and not of the type that were indicative of a disease or medical problem.

So, I don't think you need to worry about this and would not have any advice to you about precautions—other than not to get too excited about the technical jargon that doctors use and to put more reliance on what he tells you. Anyone who has a test that he is worried about should ask his doctor about it. But, don't jump to conclusions that such a test means important medical problems.

DEAR DR. LAMB— My condition has been diagnosed as hypertrophic gastritis. Would you please explain this condition to me? They also found that I have thickening of the lining of the walls of the stomach.

I was told to quit smoking and drinking. I smoked about a half pack of cigarettes a day and drank about eight to 10 shots of brandy a week. I'm still smoking about a half pack of cigarettes a week and drink perhaps four or five shots of brandy a week, just when I go out.

I'm not on a diet and was told to eat what I could tolerate. I have very little appetite. However, I do try to eat a balanced diet. For the past month I have lost my sense of taste. My condition is not malignant. I'm middle-aged. Would you please advise me?

DEAR READER— Gladly. Follow your doctor's advice. I often wonder how people think they can get well by not following the advice they paid to get. Your doctor's advice is sound and I suspect he also told you to quit drinking coffee, colas and tea. You had better knock off the alcohol and cigarettes completely if you want to avoid problems.

Hypertrophic gastritis refers to an increase in the size of the normal folds of the lining of the stomach. We all normally have folds that resemble the surface of coral. The ridges of these folds contain glands that form the acid digestive juice. When they are enlarged the person affected usually forms too much acid digestive juice and the stomach becomes inflamed, hence the term gastritis.

ELECT Richard A. Mautino State Rep.

Democrat

Paid for by Citizens for Mautino

David D. Considine

37th Dist.

77 Galea Ave., Dixon, Ill.

State Senator DAVID SHAPIRO
...it all starts with honesty.

Senator David Shapiro
isn't concerned with the things a State Senator can't do for people...
he's concerned with all the things a State Senator can do for people, either with direct action or as an advocate.

Senator David Shapiro has built his reputation on performance... not promises. As an Alderman, as a School Board Member, as a State Representative and now as our State Senator, Dave Shapiro has served Central Illinois with a quiet, dignified brand of leadership. Senator Shapiro spends his time getting a job done for people... he's not the kind of man who says, "It can't be done". To Dave Shapiro, public service is a public trust and the word "compromise" isn't in his vocabulary.

Senator Shapiro firmly believes that honesty in government is probably the most important issue today. He is only accepting contributions from individuals, and has made full disclosure of his campaign funds. He Co-sponsored the Campaign Disclosure Act that requires all candidates for public office to disclose the sources of campaign funds. It's a first strong step in putting ethics on the law books.

His great record representing us in Springfield has led to his being named "The Outstanding Freshman Representative" in the 76th General Assembly – the "Outstanding Freshman Senator" in the 78th General Assembly – the "Outstanding Legislator in the Senate" by the Illinois Community College Trustee Association – he has been honored for "Outstanding Dedicated Service as a Legislator" by the Illinois Association of Boards of Fire and Police Commissioners.

"The Bureau County Day Care Center Board, Inc. would like to thank you for the personal interest you have taken in our request for a grant for the Center. We are anxious to begin as we feel there is a real need in our community for a service of this nature . . . Our Board is aware of and grateful for the assistance you have given us in this endeavor."

"At the close of the first session of the 78th General Assembly, I would like to take this means of commending you for the hard work and long hours you put into state legislative matters. During the course of any legislative session, it is common for Senators and Representatives to receive many letters of complaint or strong pressures to pass certain legislation. Often overlooked are expressions of appreciation for the long hours of dedicated care devoted to balancing constituent needs throughout the State and passing sound legislation . . . Your support and help in specific legislation this year is deeply appreciated, but what is more appreciated is your continued ability to put up with the gaff in a difficult job of public service. My thanks."

"On behalf of the DePue Education Association I would like to thank you for showing concern and interest in the recent crisis situation at DePue. The fact that you were willing to take the time and effort to do what you could to help us in our attempt to get together with the board of education is greatly appreciated by each member of our organization."

"Bureau County Farm Bureau would like to thank you for the efforts put forth in securing a diagnostic laboratory in the northern Illinois livestock producing area. Your effort in securing the laboratory in the Kewanee area has been noted by our Farm Bureau Legislative Committee and members."

Senator David Shapiro
...a profile of public service
...because of his firm belief that public office is a public trust...he works to build a bridge between people and government.***

"We are all very appreciative of your leadership in shepherding S.B. 698 through the Senate and your influence generally in encouraging its passage through the General Assembly . . . You — probably more than most state officials — understand the significance of this appropriations act to the junior colleges of Illinois."

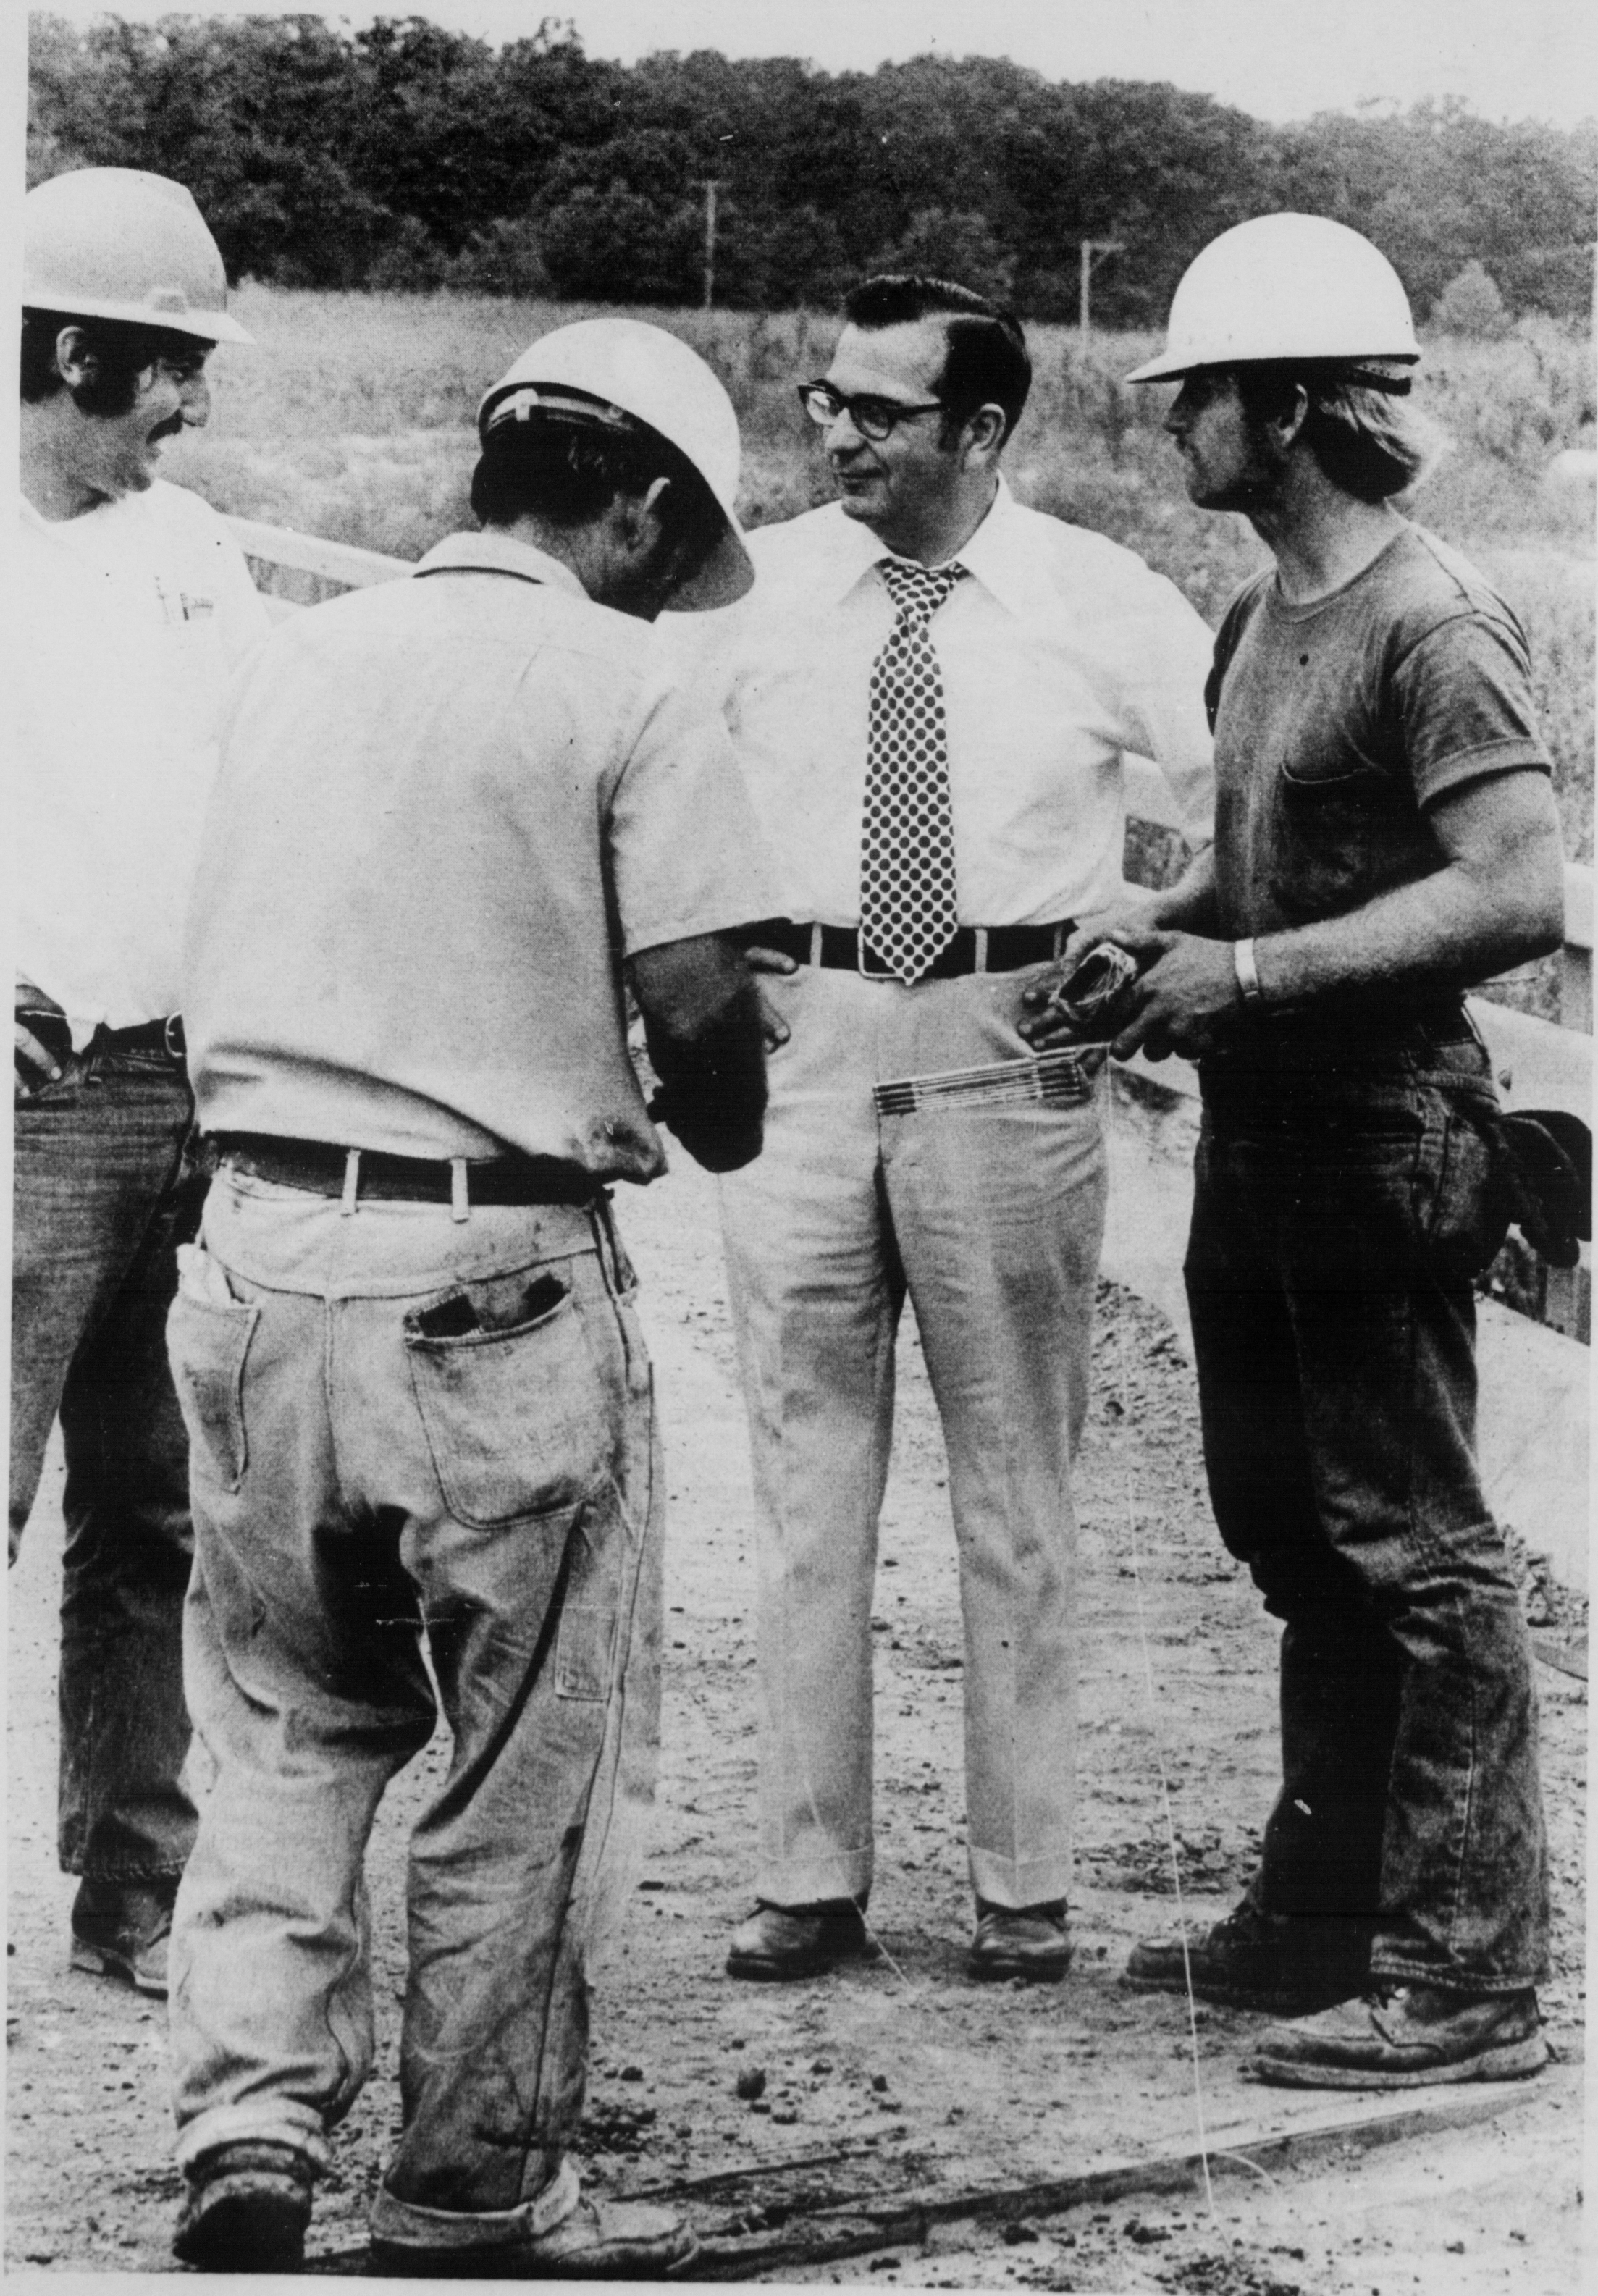

"I would like to personally thank you for your farsightedness and interest in helping the handicapped. You expressed your interest by your vote on the DDA Bill (H 724)."

"We at Kishwaukee are deeply grateful for your leadership in overriding Governor Walker's veto of the junior college appropriation bill. I feel that this was a demonstration of the fact that the will of the people can prevail when the cause is just, but we are also well aware that it could not have occurred without the strong stand taken by legislators like yourself . . . your record is such that you will have no difficulty in your re-election, Senator Shapiro, but if the need should develop, you may be sure of our strong support."

"I want to take this opportunity to express my personal thanks for the interest and efforts you put forth in recent weeks on behalf of children and families in the State of Illinois . . . Thank you again so very much for your efforts and support."

*Letters on file at Senator Shapiro's office.

No one believes that one State Senator can solve all the problems in Illinois... but a capable State Senator like Dave Shapiro has proven he can fight hard for our part of Illinois and win.

Senator Dave Shapiro is at his desk in Springfield when many of his colleagues are "out of town". It's his capacity for work that amazes people. He's the kind of man who always believes that something can be done... things can be better. He's done so much for North Central Illinois. There's so much more for him to do.

EDUCATION—Senator Shapiro led the successful fight to secure full funding of local schools while the Governor wanted to reduce school support—which would have led to additional local taxes. He worked to improve the quality of higher education through legislation to provide part-time employment for students needing financial assistance... students who want a hand, not a hand-out... students whose parents couldn't quite afford the full cost of their education, but were in an income bracket that prevented a scholarship.

TAX RELIEF—Senator Shapiro has always been a fighter for the taxpayer. He Co-sponsored the bill that expands tax relief for senior citizens and the disabled. He worked for the successful elimination of the personal property tax. His efforts to increase state aid to local schools reduced the local tax burden.

TRANSPORTATION FOR CENTRAL ILLINOIS—Senator Shapiro has been a leader in highway improvements in the Northern Illinois area and he has worked to provide AMTRAK Train Service from the Mississippi to Chicago through Sterling, Dixon and DeKalb.

FARM COMMUNITIES AND FARMERS—Senator Shapiro has worked hard for relief for farmers through his attempts to secure the release of more natural gas for fertilizer production. He is fighting for tax relief for smaller farmers. He has been rated "excellent" by the Illinois Agricultural Association.

Tues. Nov. 5th
Keep State Senator
DAVID SHAPIRO
on the job in Springfield for us
...it all starts with honesty.

This is a paid political announcement — paid for by Citizens for Senator Shapiro Committee; Myron Olson, chairman; 1010 East Tenth Street, Dixon, Illinois

Retired' Ray Milland adds writing career

HOLLYWOOD (NEA)— For a man who's supposed to be retired, Ray Milland is extremely busy.

He's done six movies in the past 14 months, culminating in "Gold," with Roger Moore, a film he says he's very proud of. And, perhaps even more important, he's discovered an entirely new career—writing.

His autobiography is out now, and "Wide-Eyed In Babylon" is probably the finest of this year's crop of movie autobiographies. He wrote it all himself, too, and it's a gem.

Now they're after him to do more writing. He will oblige them with a novel but he told me there's a string to his promise that even his publishers don't know yet.

"I haven't told them," he says, with a sly chuckle, "but I'm planning to use a pen name. I want to see if my writing is well-received when it's judged on its own merits not just because a so-called movie star wrote it."

Now that he's discovered writing, he's leading a good life in his alleged retirement. Before the discovery, he was frequently bored.

He and Mal, his wife for many years, live now in a French Riviera town called Roquebrune, not far from Monte Carlo. He says they had vacationed there for many years but began making the place their permanent home only recently.

"I feel better there," he says, "with all that clean air, away from the smog."

But the problem was what to do with himself. Mal is a painter, so she was well occupied. Ray, however, was getting a bit bored just watching her paint, even in such a pleasant place.

Some years before he had been approached by a literary agent to try his hand at an autobiography. He said he would but he just procrastinated, as most people do.

"There I was, watching Mal paint, and it was driving me up the wall," he says. "So Mal said, 'Look, you've always said you wanted to write, well, now's the time, go write.' At that precise moment, the postman came to the door and the top letter was from that literary agent saying, 'Where's the manuscript you've been promising me?'"

So he wrote 2,500 words and the agent had 19 offers for the book. He sat down, then, and went to work, grinding out about 800 words a day in a non-grueling, Riviera-like schedule of two hours of writing every morning.

He still sticks to that regimen. Everyday's he's up at 7, has breakfast on the terrace reading the paper (bought the night before and saved for the morning). He writes from 9 to 11, then has lunch. The afternoon is spent relaxing, going to Nice to buy the papers or shop.

Then it's dinner and into bed early.

"And Nice airport is only a half-hour away," he says, "and from there I can go anywhere to make a movie. I'm supposed to be retired but that's just a way of avoiding a TV series, you know. Otherwise, I'll do almost anything."

Cousteau special to air Sunday

A few years ago six French oceanauts returned to the surface of the Mediterranean after living three weeks in an undersea station planted 325 feet deep. The feat, planned and supervised by Captain Jacques Yves-Cousteau, vastly increased the area of the world accessible to human exploitation.

"The World of Jacques-Yves Cousteau," a filmed record of the pioneer adventure, is the National Geographic Special narrated by Orson Welles which will be televised Sunday, from 5:30 to 6:30 p.m. on WGN Television Channel 9.

The French undersea experiment, known as Conshelf III ("Conshelf" stands for "Continental Shelf," a rich undersea region about a fifth as large as all the dry land in the world), was a tremendous leap downward from the previous depths of 33, 36, and 90 feet at which Captain in prefabricated steel structures. Jacques-Yves Cousteau believes man can tap the shelf's mineral treasures, farm its living wealth to feed earth's ever-increasing millions, sift the debris that clutters it to learn more about the past.

The French teammates, under the immediate supervision of engineer Andre Laban, were given daily tasks to perform outside their underwater home. They don two rubber suits and a special vest to hold warmth around heart and lungs, and exit through an open hatch into the inky sea.

While petroleum experts watch on television, the oceanauts turn in an electrifying success: They repair a "Christmas tree," a tower of pipes and valves designed to control oil-well flow. Because "Christmas tree" requires human attention, oil wells cannot be drilled beyond the reach of divers from the surface. Captain Cousteau believes his men will show that crews housed under the sea can do the job. They finish the task in a time that rivals dry-land records.

Captain Cousteau said the new working depth of divers, made possible by sophisticated sea habitations and respiratory devices, more than doubled the off-shore territory that can be efficiently exploited. Previously, off-shore oil strikes 150 or more feet down have been capped because the normal diving techniques — with divers returning to the surface after each period of work — cannot maintain economic output at those depths.

'In Like Flint' on Tuesday

Agent Derek Flint—that super-hero, super-intellectual, super-spy, super-cool Romeo and a lineup of 55 bikini-clad lovelies—will be on WGN Television 9 Tuesday, beginning at 7 p.m. Starring James Coburn and Lee J. Cobb, "In Like Flint" is an outdoor spoof about an international female conspiracy out to take over the world.

Mysterious actions threaten to sabotage the government's attempt to launch the first space platform and research laboratory.

During the launching of the platform from a remote island in the Caribbean, a group of women fashion leaders are in the penthouse of the Fabulous Face Beauty Resort and Health Spa for Women on a nearby island watching through telescopes.

The President calls Cramden in the launch-control tower to congratulate all on the success of the achievement. They decide to celebrate with a round of golf the next day. A mysterious event occurs on the golf course. Followed by an embarrassing experience with Lisa from Fabulous Face, Cramden decides to call on Derek Flint.

Flint, reluctant to leave his luxurious penthouse with his three lovely attendants, finally agrees to investigate the happenings after he returns from a one-week survival course in Death Valley.

Flint returns and begins his investigation. It soon becomes evident that the ladies are instigators of a plot to take over the world. They plan to make it truly a woman's world!

How Flint finds out and how he progresses from "Operation Duffer" through "Operation Hairdryer" to "Operation Smooth," with a quick trip to Moscow to visit the beautiful prima ballerina Natasha, makes up the story. Flint, by the way, does not carry a gun, preferring simple devices like his cigarette lighter with 82 different gadgets.

Special warnings on 'Godfather' material

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Shows dealing with what networks call
"mature subject matter" often start with brief, vaguely worded advisories which gently urge parents to decide if their impressionable kids should leave the room.
But with "The Godfather," which NBC will air in two parts on Nov. 16 and 18, the network is taking the discreet storm warning several steps further to make certain viewers realize strong fare is pending.
It says in the few days before it shows the film it will:
—Include in both its print and 30-and 60-second broadcast promotions for the film the suggestion that parents consider whether any family member "who might be disturbed by it" should see it at all.
—Pat Herminio Traviesas,
NBC's broadcast standards

chief, on the "Today" show to discuss the film for anyone still unfamiliar with it, explain why it's being shown and perhaps how it's been edited.

NBC also may precede the Part One showing with a taped statement about the Oscar-winning movie by its director,
Francis Ford Coppola.

And if NBC, which hasn't yet seen his statement, decides not to use it, the film will be preceded by an audio-visual advisory about its contents, the advisory repeated at the first major break, Traviesas says.

The 1972 movie for which NBC paid a record $10 million for a single showing, is about the way Mafia families live, work and die. Its gore is realistically graphic and definitely not for the faint-hearted.

But Traviesas, who worked with Coppola in editing the film for TV, says the director told him that while the movie runs about three hours, its violent scenes only total approximately 13 minutes.

He said less than a minute of this has been trimmed with the general aim of "trying to take some of the shock values out of it" without ruining the artistic intent of Coppola & Co.

Ask Dick Kleiner

DEAR DICK: This season especially, the networks seem to have scheduled enjoyable programs in the same time slots. I think this arrangement could have been better coordinated. Many people I have discussed this with agree. What's your opinion?— D.S.P., Cogan Station, Pa.

The networks aren't interested in coordination, but in total triumph. They schedule their shows with an idea of beating out the shows on the other networks. The comfort of the viewer is of no pith and moment. It would be ideal if there were cooperation and coordination but I doubt it will ever happen.

DEAR DICK: I was wondering if any of the Three Stooges comedy team is still alive. If so, which ones?— DENNIS ECONOMEU, Haverhill, Mass.

The original Three Stooges were Larry Fine and Moe and Curly Howard. Curly died in 1947, but the other two are still living—Fine at the Motion Picture Country Home and Moe Howard in Hollywood. Curly was succeeded by Shemp Howard, his brother, who died in '55.

DEAR DICK: What is the name of the show James Garner starred in a few years ago, in which he played the sheriff of a small town? I mean his old TV show?— D.C.O., Plattsburgh, N.Y.

You're thinking of Nichols, which is funny— everybody else is trying to forget it.

DEAR DICK: On Planet of the Apes, Cornelius was played by Roddy McDowall. Who was his wife?— TIM BERGER, Williamsport, Pa.

I assume you mean the movie series, not the current TV SHOW. In the movies, McDowall's chimpanzee wife was played by Kim Hunter.

DEAR DICK: What was Mario Lanza's real name?— BULA CARLEY, Taber, Alberta, Can.

Lanza was really Alfred Cocozza. I wonder why he bothered to change his name?

DEAR DICK: I've heard that Demond Wilson and Flip Wilson are brothers. Is this true?— V.S., Mobile, Ala. Untrue. Maybe you heard them call each other "brother," but that's the in-slang among blacks to each other and has no relationship to a family relationship.

Welk salutes Country music

Lawrence Welk offers a "Country Music Special" as a musical salute to America's hinterlands on Sunday.

The potpourri of the nation's top country tunes and gospel hymns begins with "Country Roads" by the entire Welk company. A parade of popular rural songs follows, including the gospel favorite "Why Me, Lord?" by Ava Barber, the classic "Gentle On My Mind" by the band, and "We're Gonna Hold On" by Guy and Ralna Hovis.

Clay Hart's solo of "Kiss An Angel" is followed by "If You Love Me, Let Me Know" by Tanya Welk, "By Heck" with Bobby and Cissy in a terps-comedy routine, "Release Me" by Anacani and the band, and "Wabash Cannonball" with Neil Levang's guitar, Johnny Zell's trumpet, and Henry Cuesta's clarinet. Norma Zimmer offers "I Really Don't Want To Know," Buddy Merrill sings "It May Be Silly" and reprises with "Steel Guitar Rag," accompanied by Arthur Duncan's steel-tapping.

A guest, Judy Miller, sings "I'd Rather Be Right," Joe Feeney solos "Make the World Go Away," Ralna and the Dixielanders have fun with "Bonaparte's Retreat," and Tom Netherton offers "It Is No Secret."

Jim Roberts' solo is "Roomful of Roses," Ken Delo's is "Gonna Get Along Without You," and Welk's choraleers sing the beloved country hymn, "Little Brown Church."

Sand is sensation of the new TV season

HOLLYWOOD (NEA) — There is something about him that the girls love and the guys don't mind. It's a shy sexiness, a kind of reluctant romantic quality. Whatever it is, it has made Paul Sand one of this TV season's big discoveries.

The general reaction among girls to the star of Paul Sand In Friends and Lovers is a resounding: "He's cute!" He may be the first TV leading man to crash through the sex barrier and become whatever the '74 equivalent of a matinee idol is called. (Boob Tube Romeo, perhaps?)

He seems to be pretty much the same type of guy offscreen as on. He still has that shyness, that reluctance, that sort of walking shrug. He admits that the differences between Paul Sand and Robert Dreyfuss, the character he plays on his CBS show, are slight.

But there are some differences. The major one, of course, is music. Dreyfuss' profession is music; he plays the bass violin in the Boston Symphony Orchestra. Sand is nonmusical. When it looks like he's playing the bass violin, he isn't. He's just going through the motions and a professional bass violinist, offstage, is making the real musical noises.

Another difference is love. Dreyfuss has a different love affair each week. He seems to fall in and out of his amours the way the rest of us change underwear. Not so Paul Sand. To him, romance is almost sacred.

"I've been going with the same girl for two years," he says. "I have romantic problems. You see, I hate to break up with anybody. So I don't fall in love because it's too hard on me to break up."

The similarities, however, outweigh the differences. There is a startling coincidence of family. Dreyfuss and Sand both have only one sibling—an older brother. Dreyfuss' works as an architect, Sand's is an interior designer, which is remarkably close.

They are both bachelors, living alone.

And they are both tremendously career-oriented. For all we know yet about Dreyfuss, music is his real love. And, for Paul Sand, acting is his real love.

Sand is a Los Angeles native. His far-sighted parents encouraged him in whatever he wanted to do. If he said he wanted to be a baseball player, they said fine, go to it. So when he said he wanted to be an actor, they said OK, swell.

"But I kept on saying I wanted to be an actor," he says, "so they figured they'd better help me. They found me a teacher.

PAUL SAND: Some differences but more similarities.

who turned out to be Viola."

Viola Spolin is not an ordinary teacher. She is known as the mother of improvisational theater. She is literally the mother of Paul Sills, the founder of Story Theater, and figuratively the mother of Chicago's Second City.

Sand studied with Spolin from the time he was 11. He did some professional work—he was a TV chorus boy for a while—but it wasn't until he was 19 that he found a direction for his talents.

"One day," he says, "when I was 19, I was sitting on the beach. Almost everything important that's happened to me started out with me sitting on the beach. Anyhow, this day I read an article about Marcel Marceau and, on the spur of the moment, I decided to go to Paris and study with him."

So he did. He took the $700 he had saved from his TV chorus job and went to Paris, knocked on Marceau's door, got an audition and a job and stayed with his company for a year.

He came back, skilled as a mime, and joined Sills in "Second City" and later "Story Theater." He began doing bits in movies and on TV and his career was launched. One of the jobs he had, which didn't seem like anything special at the time, was a bit with Mary Tyler Moore on her show.

"We had a rapport at the time," Sand says, "but I just thought of it as another job. But then, some time later, I was at the beach—see what I told you!—and I decided to drive into town.

"I pulled up at a stop light and next to me was this big blue Rolls with the tinted blue glass. It was Mary and her husband, Grant Tinker, and we waved at each other."

The curious thing about that wave, which didn't come out until much later, was that the Tinkers had never taken that particular route before. And yet, as they were driving along, they had been discussing Paul Sand. So to see him waving at them was a stunning surprise.

The Tinkers had been discussing Paul Sand as the possible star of a TV show. When he heard about it, he was stunned, in his shy and reluctant way.

"It's all very strange and unexpected, this having my own show," he says.

He still lives at the beach. He lives in a motel, made over from Buster Keaton's house. His room is Keaton's old bedroom.

"I dream very pleasant dreams," Paul Sand says.

Karras gets another chance

NEW YORK (AP) — Alex Karras, initially considered and then rejected by ABC-TV as Don Meredith's replacement on ABC's Monday night football jousts, finally has gotten an on-air shot at the job.

Although he played it relatively straight and was unusually—for him—reserved in his Monday night tryouts, he was infinitely better than ABC's first choice, black actor and NFL veteran Fred Williamson.

Williamson, 36, was dropped from the Monday night football filibuster after three pre-season games because he just couldn't hack it in the broadcast booth.

Karras, who spent the last two seasons as sort of a free-association analyst of televised Canadian football games in addition to his acting career, was hastily summoned only last Friday to fill the oral cavity created by William's departure.

Minnelli writes his autobiography

By BOB THOMAS

Associated Press Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "I Remember It Well" is the title of the new autobiography of Vincente Minnelli, who has sometimes been remembered less for his superbly styled movies than for being husband and father of two superstars.

Minnelli was married to Judy Garland from 1945 to 1951. They collaborated on four films and one daughter, Liza, born by Caesarian section on March 12, 1946.

He has also directed such films as "Meet Me in St. Louis," "Madame Bovary," "An American in Paris" (Oscar for best picture, 1951), "Father of the Bride," "The Bad and the Beautiful," "Lust for Life," "Gigi" (best picture, best direction, 1957), "Some Came Running," etc.

With collaborator Hector Arce, Minnelli deals in frank and instructive detail with the hazards of directing for a major studio—he made all but two of his 35 films for MGM. Also the problems of dealing with the industry's censors.

The Production Code Administrator objected to the making of "Gigi" because "all of the characters were unmarried and opposed marriage as an institution," and "the boy had immoral relations with many women and the girl was being trained for life as a mistress."

The administrator finally relented, and Minnelli filmed "Gigi" in his usual good taste.

Minnelli's pride in Liza shines through in his autobiography.

"I've always been more a part of the audience than her father, a super fan who happens to love her very much," he remarks.

Father and daughter had hoped to make a film together, but so far it hasn't materialized. Minnelli is considering other projects, admitting that he works to please himself — "but I'm the hardest person to please that I know."

In "I Remember It Well," Minnelli adds revealing data to ever-growing Garland lore. He writes of their first meeting at MGM when he was newly arrived from the New York stage and she was an established, if personally insecure star at MGM.

"I was attracted to her open manner, as only a man who has been reserved all his life can be," says Minnelli.

Their romance began to bloom when she reluctantly agreed to appear in his third film, "Meet Me in St. Louis." He was nine years older, but they had a common bond: both had spent childhoods in theaters all over the country.

Minnelli learned that Judy sometimes relied on amphetamines to get her through a shooting day.

They started living together when "Meet Me in St. Louis" finished shooting.

Unable to rest after the pep pills, Judy resorted to sleeping pills. She tried to stop, writes Minnelli, "and there were long periods where she took no drugs at all."

"Then life would get too much for her, and I'd come home and find her speech and gestures going double time."

"I'll quit," she often said. "I promise."

A week after her divorce to composer Dave Rose became final, Judy and Minnelli were married.

Medusa expands plant in Georgia

The Board of Directors of Medsa Corporation have approved the expenditure of $3.6 million dollars for the purchase and installation of a new 3,000 horsepower Finish Mill for the Company's modernized and expanded Clinchfield, Ga., cement manufacturing plant.

The new Finish Mill will increase the capacity of the plant to 750,000 tons annually. The project is expected to be completed by the end of 1976.

Medusa purchased the Clinchfield Plant from Penn-Dixie Industries, Inc. in December 1971 and immediately began a $13 million dollar improvement program to increase the capacity from 415,000 tons. The company replaced three short wet process cement kilns with a new preheater which reduced the energy required to produce a ton of cement by approximately 65 per cent.

The Board of Directors and officers of Medusa Corporation held an open house today at the Clinchfield Plant for government officials and other guests to show them to new manufacturing facilities.

Says fertilizer output could change

WASHINGTON (AP) — An Agriculture Department expert says world fertilizer production by 1980 could exceed the estimates of six months ago if new plants currently planned are put into operation.

Richard D. Reidinger, of the department's Economic Research Service, said world output of nitrogen 8 the ingredient in shortest supply — could exceed use by as much as 5.2 million metric tons in 1980 if plants now on drawing boards are operating.

The new fertilizer projections were included in a report published Tuesday by USDA. Last March the agency said world nitrogen production by 1980 could fall short of need by 3.9 million to 9.6 million tons.

Projections made by the World Bank last spring showed a similar deficit by 1980. But Reidinger's report said more recent developments have significantly altered those estimates.

"High prices have stimulated what appears to be a very massive response involving expanded fertilizer plant facilities," Reidinger told a reporter. "It isn't going to help today or tomorrow, but within a few years — if these plans turn out — it could mean a significant difference."

But Reidinger cautioned in the interview that fertilizer, while highly important, cannot guarantee by itself the additional food the world will need by 1980. Other inputs, including energy, will have a large bearing on whether poor countries can boost food production.

What's happened to Woodstock stars?

Woodstock was billed as "three days of love, peace and music" featuring over two dozen then-supergroups scheduled to perform for the bargain price of $18 per ticket. Only 27 of the 30 groups billed appeared and most of them were flown in by helicopter due to the roads being thoroughly choked with traffic.

Many of the groups were total unknowns though certain members of bands were established artists with substantial followings. What has happened to those 27 since the apocalypse of Woodstock?

Drugs have taken their toll on the gladiators of Woodstock. Jimi Hendrix, Janis Joplin and members of Canned Heat and Sha-Na-Na have gone on to join that great rock band in the sky. Other groups may have well as passed on for in the five years since Woodstock, they have floundered in oblivion: Iron Butterfly broke up years ago; Blood, Seat & Tears have been struggling ever since lead singer David Clayton-Thomas split; Creedence Clearwater Revival could use a revival since their demise three years ago and Country Joe and the Fish... remember them? Jeff Beck's group faltered after front vocalist Rod Stewart went on to solo stardom, ditto for Ten Years After whose guiding light, Alvin Lee, now cavorts by rsvp only. Johnny Winter has only recently returned to the tour circuit after a bout with drugs broke up his first group.

Crosby, Stills, Nash & Young, the one group that most embodies the Woodstock Spirit when they made their first public appearance ever, flourished briefly for a year or so before most of the members went their separate paths due to ego problems. They just reformed this summer and appear to have conquered the comeback trail following several "sold-out" concerts. Carlos Santana has exited from his namesake group and does solo tours as does Richie Havens.

The Grateful Dead basked in the glow of national exposure for two years, then faded away although they are currently attempting a comeback. Joe Cocker's Grease Band disbanded and Cocker is aiming for a return as a solo artist.

The Band is still going strong, compliments of one Robert Dylan who frequently appears with them, and The Who are as popular as ever though rumors are heard that mentor Peter Townsend may be leaving. The Incredible Stringband continues and the Jefferson Airplane makes occasional appearances though most of the members have formed splinter groups. Arolo Guthrie, John Sebastian, Tim Hardin, Melanie and Joan Baez are still around making decent livings but nothing like they were. Mountain, Paul Butterfield's band and Ravi Shankar still function though they seem to be only going through the motions.

There you have it, the blood and guts of Woodstock, the element calculated to "hold it all together" now just incidentals.

What kind of a man is DON BURKE?

ASK THOSE WHO KNOW HIM BEST...

"Don will provide a strong voice for us in rural Illinois, if elected to the General Assembly." - Wilson King, Vice President, Rural Co-alition of America, Rock Falls, Ill.

"Don has demonstrated his ability and knowledge of local government finances and fiscal affairs during his time on the County Board Finance Committee. He knows the value of a buck." - Charles Dunphy, former chairman, Lee County Board.

"Don has been a strong advocate of local government and has consistently opposed the encroachment of the State and Washington into our local affairs." - Warren E. Walder, Mayor, City of Dixon.

"When it comes to the ordinary working man and woman, we'll have someone who can represent us in Springfield in Don Burke." - John Farney, President, United Steelworkers local.

"A freshman member like Burke who does his homework well may impress more veteran members..." - Robert H. Nellis, Editor, Dixon Evening Telegraph.

"Burke... Looks like a candidate who can be a doer and shaker in Springfield." Endorsement by Rockford Morning Star.

Local 172 feels that Don Burke's stand on mental health issues, collective bargaining legislation, and disclosure of campaign funds, is in the best interests of all the public employees in the 37th District.

Endorsed by: AFL-CIO, United Steel Workers. Single candidate endorsed by HFSCME 172 and AFSCME 963, Chicago Tribune, Peoria Journal Star, Rockford Morning Star, Northern Star.

SUPPORT THE ONE YOU KNOW!

DONALD F. BURKE

FOR STATE REPRESENTATIVE

This is what Don said before he decided to run:

"There is no point in being elected to public office if you can't be your own man. If I run, it will be with no strings attached. I will accept no campaign contributions from any groups or organizations. Nov. 21, 1973

- NO DONATIONS FROM SPECIAL INTEREST GROUPS. HE ACCEPTED NONE.
- THE NAME OF EVERY DONOR, FROM A PENNY UP, WOULD BE MADE PUBLIC. HE LISTED THE NAME OF EVERY DONOR. HE DID IT EVEN BEFORE THE PRIMARY ELECTION, WHEN STATE LAW DID NOT REQUIRE IT. HIS DISCLOSURE GOES FAR BEYOND THAT REQUIRED BY LAW.
- A FULL AUDIT OF EVERY CAMPAIGN RECEIPT AND DISBURSEMENT WAS MADE AND PUBLISHED. THE ACCOUNTING FIRM OF HAMILTON AND BLAINE WAS ENLISTED TO MAKE THE AUDIT.

The only question we face now, is can a campaign run so independent and free of obligation, elect a candidate. If it works I could be the freest and most independent legislator ever to enter the legislative chambers in Springfield.
